

TENNIS MATCHES BEGIN ON SUNDAY

Birmingham Team To Play Highland Park "Y" At 10 a. m.

The three clay courts of the Birmingham Tennis Club are being groomed for the club team match with the Highland Park Y. M. C. A. next Sunday. Three singles and two doubles matches will be played, beginning at 10 a. m. Although a few of the team members of the Birmingham club will be away on vacations, the local team promises to make the match an interesting event. The line-up has not been definitely decided by team captain Irving Kelly.

Play will begin on Saturday Aug. 30, in the annual Labor Day Open Tournament. The first matches will be at two o'clock on Saturday and will continue through Sunday to the finals which will be played Labor Day afternoon at two-thirty. This tournament will include both singles and doubles.

The singles trophy, a large loving cup, was won last year by Mr. N. C. Maxwell of the Detroit Tennis Club. He will return this year to defend his title. All interest is pointing toward this tournament as the high-light of the local season. Entries must reach the Pierce and Lincoln club-house by Friday evening, Aug. 29, or must be phoned to Irving Kelly at either 2949 or 846.

Evangelist Ralph McPherson, 17-year-old son of Almee Semple McPherson, will soon start on his first speaking tour throughout the middle west.

After a five-hour search, Joe Bridlee, an oil field worker in Maud, Okla., was found sitting on a log singing "Coming Through the Rye," after traveling three miles while walking in his sleep.

INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY SHOWN TO DEPEND ON FARM PRODUCTS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 21.—Definite indication that periods of business prosperity are to a considerable extent initiated and maintained by times of low price levels on agricultural products is the result of an extensive study of agriculture and business cycles by Vladimir P. Timoshenko of the School of Business Administration in the University of Michigan.

Cycles in farm prices are dependent upon cycles in volume of crops, and are therefore largely independent of industrial activity. The study showed, but on the contrary industrial prosperity was shown to be closely related to agricultural price levels, both in the starting of business booms and in keeping them going. When prices for farm products were low business picked up, but as the cycle advanced and agricultural prices rose in relation to industrial prices, activity in the latter field decreased and a period of depression set in.

A low rate of farm to industrial prices is favorable to business expansion, it is explained, because the manufacturer can buy raw materials cheaply and is encouraged to produce large amounts of goods for sale at low prices. Sixty per cent of the value of the gross output of industry is for raw materials, the greater part of which are agricultural in source, such as grains, cotton, hides and wool. So long as prices for such material remains low there is a margin of profit which stimulates manufacture and induces activity throughout the business field. But when the agricultural price level becomes high, it is likely to indicate a peak of prosperity and presage a decline, the statistician found.

Fluctuations of agricultural exports also cause fluctuations in the balance of trade and the inflow and outflow of gold. Large crops bring gold from other countries, and as a result the rate of increase of money in circulation correlates fairly closely with changes in agricultural exports.

CENTRAL PRESS GOLF WRITER
 THERE IS NOTHING more rhythmic in golf swings than that tee shot when Long Jim Barnes cuts loose.

With his legs stretched out and feet well planted, he executes a perfect pivot with the hips, shoulders and arms.

 All of Barnes' swings are well timed. Barnes' smoothness is the foundation of his golf, even his very hinging down the fairway is smooth. Barnes' only heavy action is with the whip of the wrists when hitting, and that is a terrific punch.
 There is no lost motion in Jim's

LOOK Under the TREAD

IT'S THE inside facts that count—the construction under the tread of a tire that gives dependability and mileage. Take a look under the tread.
 We have cut up new tires so that you can make the comparison—know the truth. We want you to compare the matchless new Firestone Anchor Double-Breaker Balloon with all other tires. You be the judge! You don't have to take our word for Firestone's superior value—compare these low prices.

The Firestone Anchor Double-Breaker Balloon has heavier cord plies, a stronger head, an extra thick, tough tread—and the patented Double-Breaker, two extra plies beneath the tread to resist punctures and blowouts. You will see these extra features when you look under the tread.
