

OTTO SACHSE IS BOUND OVER ON 2 CHARGES

Pontiac Millionaire To Be Tried In Circuit Court For $15,500 Fraud
BAIL SET AT $10,000

Otto Sachse, Pontiac millionaire land owner and former bank president, without offering any testimony, was bound over to the Oakland County Circuit Court Tuesday for trial on two charges of having defrauded the Pontiac School Board of funds totalling $15,500.

Judge Henry W. Harpster turned the case over to the higher court with the comment that he believed sufficient evidence had been given to warrant Sachse's trial before a jury.

Hearing on the case probably will be begun early next week when Norman C. Orr, prosecuting attorney who asked for a grand jury investigation which resulted in Sachse's indictment, announced Sachse is at liberty under bail of $10,000.

He is accused of having obtained the $15,500 while he served as president of the school board in 1928. Orr alleges that Sachse misrepresented a land deal and induced the school board to pay $32,500 for property owned by Sachse and for which he had paid $17,000 six months previously.

Sachse declared that Paul Kamper, Detroit architect, was the owner of the property, Orr said, and when Kamper denied that he had bought the land, Orr asked for a grand jury inquiry into the sale.

Mr. Thomas L. Luscombe, real estate dealer, is the authority for this amusing story of the days when the kitchen stove was a consumer of kindling wood. "A certain Mr. Morris (that is not his name) went to work early in the morning," relates Mr. Luscombe, "in the days before gas was used for cooking in Royal Oak. Mr. Morris had a son with mechanical ambitions. Consequently Mr. Morris could never find his tools. Mr. Morris had told his wife not to get up in the morning, that it would be an easy matter for him to prepare his own breakfast. Then Mr. Morris talked to his son. He told the boy he could use any tool in the house if he would be sure to return it to its proper place. And furthermore," he said, "I want you to see that the box in the kitchen is supplied with kindling wood so that I won't have to go out to the shed in the morning and cut some before I prepare my breakfast."

The next morning Mr. Morris went, shivering, to the kitchen. He was in an irritable mood. There

Lincoln Club Banquet Held

More than 400 members of the Oakland County Republican Club honored the name of the great American at the club's forty-first annual Lincoln banquet Tuesday night at the First Congregational Church at Pontiac.

Albert W. Willson, county treasurer, opened the speaking program with a discussion of law enforcement and taxation. He pointed out that one-fourth of the county's taxes delinquent were bid in by the state and declared that the people were as much to blame as the public officials for high taxes.

Fred G. Dewey, a descendant of Oakland county pioneers and a native of Pontiac, now president of the Oakland County Bar Association, acted as emcee.

Congressman Homer Hoch of Marion, Kan., pointed to the progress of the republican leadership during the 10 years of reconstruction following the World war, and challenged the party to support prohibition and paid a glowing tribute to the new "diplomacy of the neighborhood" as exemplified by Hoover and MacDonald conferring on a log beside the Rapidan River.

Following Mr. Hoch's address, tribute was paid by Mr. Dewey, Rep. Hudson and Justice Louis B. Brandeis of the State Supreme Court to former Justice Joseph B. Moore, a native and former jurist of Oakland county, now ill at his home in Lansing and unable to attend this year's banquet. Justice Brand, Hugh MacPherson, former state banking commissioner and State Representative Oscar Hull, of Detroit, were introduced as honoree guests by the toastmaster.

The program was concluded by a comedy skit by two members of the Grand Trunk entertainers.
