

30 BALDWINIAN GOES TO PRESS

Annual School Publication Bigger And Better Than Ever

The 1930 Baldwinian will go to press next week and final preparations are being made to get the copy out on time although some material will be withheld such as the action picture of the basketball tournament and other athletic events. This year an entirely new cover has been designed which will be in fitting with the theme of the annual publication which deals with the building up of the Birmingham School system.

The cover will be made of Moxane, a flexible imitation leather. The color has not yet been decided upon.

Besides the new cover feature the annual will contain from 20 to 30 more pages than previous books and will feature more pictures including many action pictures and pictures of last year's Washington Group and many of the new buildings in Birmingham.

Following is the Baldwinian staff: Wallace Gail, Editor-in-chief; Mary Hutchinson and Esther Rainey, assistant editors; Richard Eberly, literary editor; Leonard McClure, art editor; James Winborn, business manager; Richard Eberly, circulation and boys sport editor; Alice Smith, circulation manager; Julia Myers, girls athletic editor; Earl Zeigler, Erin Andrews, Charles Spunk, and Margaret Corryell, advertising; Frederick Johnson, photography, and Marjorie Canner and Gertrude Corryell, typists.

Mrs. Aris Horwath, is the faculty literary advisor, Miss Morlie Taylor, business advisor, and Mrs. Helen Kidder, art advisor. Much credit is due the art department under Mrs. Kidder for the fine work in accomplishing one of the hardest tasks ever attempted for any previous annual. Those who assisted in this project are: Jay Stawar, Betty Eckard, Leonard McClure, Marion Fowler, Ruth Harrington, Jessie Frenette, Irene Lake, Lucille Lowman, Katherine Brown, Margaret Richardson, Jane Stober, Marjorie Phillips, and Steve White.

JUNIOR GROUP NOW IN CONTROL

With the retirement of the present Senior Washington Group from active business the Junior Washington group has taken over beginning this week, a monopoly on all former Senior projects and is planning to undertake several projects during the remainder of the Spring term. The annual Bole Trip in June will be considered and the old ad club, the group's treatment booth, will be reopened for business across from Baldwin High School. The group also expects to sponsor a concert given by the Nation Club sometime

Here's The Story Of One Oakland County Boy Who Has "Turned Over A New Leaf"

Looks as Though Something May Happen Here in this Y. M. C. A. Summer Camp Group

There is a boy in this little story, but his name isn't going to be mentioned. He is just one of the many boys in Oakland county who have benefited from the summer camp conducted by the four associated Y. M. C. A. groups in the county.

It was last year that the boy came to the attention of the men who sponsor the Y. M. C. A. summer camp. The story was much like that of other lads of his age—the home broken up by the separation of the father and mother, the lad finding it necessary to go to the home of an uncle to live.

"Good Uncles" Now, almost all uncles are good uncles. This uncle was, too. But it was not to be expected that he would, or could, give this boy the training and attention that a youngster is rightfully entitled to and receives in a home of his own, where all is congenial. The lad began to pick up with companions who were not of the highest order. His language began to take on too much "color" and too much vividness and too much emphasis.

At about this time he was discovered by the men who are furthering the Oakland County Y.

in April. The date has not yet been decided.

The group was organized last year under the title of Sophomore Washington Group and is composed of about 65 members. Maurice Winborn is president, Robert Hilly, vice-president, Erin Andrews, secretary, and Curtis Matthews, treasurer. The group advisors are Miss Emily Walker and Miss Ruth Hull.

Arthur Wilke of Chicago is cutting his third set of teeth at the age of 8.

another boy, put over a vaudeville number that was a regular humdinger.

And our hero, what of him? He developed into one of the "singiest" boys in the whole bunch. His language improved, his behavior became as good as that of any other boy, and his spirit and pride were touched into ambition. On stunts that he didn't hang back in bashfulness, not he. He stepped into the program like a little major, gave a fine harmonica solo and, together with

C. A. Summer Camp Group

The men sponsoring this Y. M. C. A. camp cannot help but believe that the days spent at the camp virtually rescued this youngster, put him on his feet, destroyed his inferiority complex and made him an up and coming boy, with confidence in himself. Since that time he has made good, the confidence that his big men friends had in him from the start. He has verified their good judgment, and today he is a fine student at Sunday school, and a lad that any father and mother could be proud of.

This is only one story in support of the belief on the part of Y. M. C. A. leaders in Oakland county that the summer camp 150 miles north of Birmingham is a vital need in developing the best in Oakland county boyhood. A tract of land is available on Loon Lake, near Hale, Michigan, with the Au Sable river not far distant. All the activities that go to make up any ideal camp for boys will be supplied, together with health and behavior training and instruction.

ADAMS' TITLE HOPES SHAKY

Falling to hold a battling Ferndale Junior High team in check after the score had been tied at 10-10 during the fourth period, the Adams Juniors lost the second game within a week, 12-10, Friday on the Adams court. Last week the Adams cagers lost to Berkeley. Coach Joy's squad finishes the season tomorrow night on the Taft floor at Ferndale. If they lose that game, all hopes for leadership in the Little Six League will be lost.

Schwartz opened the scoring with a free shot and shortly afterwards, LaPrete retaliated with a field goal to give Ferndale a one-point lead. LaPrete rimmed another for Ferndale and Schwartz bagged one for Adams to close the quarter with the score at 3-4 for Ferndale. Both teams scored two points in the second period. Schwartz scored a basket from close range and Fowler took a long shot.

The third period was the fastest for both teams, Adams gaining the lead. Brown put one through from close range, Schwartz scored and Gaudet succeeded in one out of 10 shots for Ferndale, making the score 9-8, for Adams.

LaPrete put Ferndale in a one-point lead soon after the whistle opened the fourth but Schwartz came back to tie the score with a free shot on Poulton, 10-10. Both teams battled fiercely for a few minutes but Adams slowed up for a short time and Ferndale scored the winning shot when LaPrete threw the ball from behind the double line. It looked as if Adams might have scored another basket in the few remaining minutes of play but Ferndale checked all of the drives until the final whistle blew.

Let's get down to FACTS

Every manufacturer claims his radio is best. All are making unqualified, general statements as to sensitivity, power, selectivity and tone. So let's get down to facts—let's see whose radio really is best—whose radio actually is the most sensitive to weak signals—whose radio does get the greatest number of distant stations, let's see which receiver really is capable of giving razor-edge selectivity with perfect musical reproduction.

World's Record
As to sensitivity and power, Scott World's Record Custom-Built Radio gained its name by obtaining verification of 1717 programs received from points 6000 to 8200 meters—anywhere within the broadcast band of 300 to 3500 meters! That statement of performance is not mere claim—it is a matter of official record!

Comparative Demonstration Invited
As to selectivity and tone, we say this: come to either of our salons—or let us bring a Scott World's Record Custom-Built Receiver to your home for comparative demonstration against any other receiver regardless of make, number of tubes, type, or price. We assure you that Scott precision, Scott Custom-Building, and Scott quality will out-perform

This is the Scott Abbey—just one of the twenty-two especially designed, radio-made, accurately perfect cabinets in which Scott World's Record Custom-Built Radio is available. A visit to our salon and an inspection of the radio will convince you that the value is yours. The Abbey is $450. Other models range upward from $215.
