GARDENING

J. H. Wallace, secretary of the Bloomfield Hills and District Horticultural Society, contributes the following advice for garden enthusiasts who are planning to build new homes this spring: "Some people have a house this spring. Others will move to a new one and some will have a new one built. In any case, what does building of homes have to do with gardening? Many persons have wondered why their plants did not grow and flourish as well as the flowers in the nurseries used to grow. Even the beautiful plants that come from the florists in a few days shed their foliage and have to be discarded. This is especially true of the cherry plants that are so beautiful at Christmas time and which will not last through the winter if given the proper attention. Why are your plants in the home falling? The answer lies in the gas. The gas that is used in cooking food and heating water is frequently the cause of the short life of plants in the home. Some will
