"It might be well to remind these women that their views are not those of the Supreme Court of the United States and that the Eighteenth Amendment was written into the Constitution by the people of the United States at the time it was adopted."

Suffer Intellectual Squint "In some moments of the eclipse of spiritual understanding there are instances of prohibition as an attempt to impose total abstinence by national governmental fiat."

"Possibly no generation in the Christian era has so completely discredited the teachings of Jesus as has the dominant contemporary generation. In the great nations of the world the most diligent of the destinies of people have put their confidence in 'reeking turpitude,' human traditions and men's ways of peace, brotherhood and good will, has witnessed the most colossal catastrophe in the world's history."

"Mankind has not had the scientific discoveries and mechanistic, with prayers to Christ upon the lips, the encouragement of governments and churches the flower of the world's manhood perished."

"Throughout the world an intense nationalism has developed. The patriotism of the nations is so irrational that mankind is armed as never before in its history, and ready to vindicate its national pride by war instead of following Christ."

"The voices of the majority of the presidents of the colleges and universities of America are raised to declare that conditions are superior in their habits of drinking and that our American youth is not debauched. Literally millions of homes are in a constant worry about the drinking habits of their sons and daughters."
