By HILDA HUNT
IN THIS ERA of the very feminine, when the flapper no longer flaps, it is essential that we cultivate ease, grace and poise in our home furnishings as well as in our clothes and manners. It is quite necessary that the young girl be surrounded with dainty, pretty things—to cultivate the grace and poise of a manner necessary to carry off the new fashions.

The dressing table, as someone has said, is a very intimate appointment. It should reflect the character of the girl for whom it is designed.

A pretty idea sketched for this type of girl, provided, of course, the color scheme of the room permitted it. A folding mirror is here used, with lamp shades in crystal, the color of the mirror is here used, and the lamp shades are of a crystal, with blue or pink or lavender shades, according to the color used under the dotted swiss of the...
The draping table at the right is for the more sophisticated type of girl and is draped in taffeta. Rose of lavender, or green piping in lavender would be a good choice for this type of girl, provided, of course, the color scheme of the room permitted it. Shantung, Durable and Inexpensive, Is Ideal Fabric for Summer Frocks

BY HARRIET
SHANTUNG is itself one of the most popular and correct fabrics for summer wear. Its light weight, its ability to stand up under much wear and tear, its pliable texture and its pretty colors give it four-fold appeal.

More than that, it is inexpensive. It washes easily and irons to look like new, which is more than many fabrics can boast.

For the woman who goes to work, a frock or two of shantung will come in very handy. For the woman traveling, a dark blue or black shantung suit with colored organdie blouses is a blessing. Shantung is even excellent for the children's things.

FOR the business girl, a Faquin semi-fitted suit comes in a natural colored shantung trimmed with brown buttons. It has a little white shantung sleeveless jacket with a high collar. The skirt is pleated with a deep inverted fold at the center front, on both sides and in the back. The coat is semi-fitted, with brown buttons from the waist down and it has no collar. The little blouse has the same brown buttons. A bow tie finishes it.

Quite a different type of costume, but also one suitable for business wear or shopping in summer time, is a pink shantung frock made with an all around bleated skirt below a deep yoke made of banding of the material. The waist has a deep yoke effect and banding finish its collar line. A lingerie bow slips through these bandings at the front of the neck, and can be changed to give variety. A bow tie of pink and black polka dotted cotton or linen would be a good change.
