

UNCROWNED KINGS

Unknown writer who sold a novel without first breaking the record for flying a plane upside down, a marathon dance contest or football touchdowns.

Life's Little Laughs

A rich man lying on his death bed called his chauffeur and said, 'Byes, I am going on a long journey; rugged and worse than you ever drove me.'

Logic, We Call It 'What is a pedestrian, daddy?' 'It is a person with a wife, daughter, two sons and a car.'

A Joyous event had taken place in the home of the film producer. 'Here is the son and heir, sir,' said the nurse, smiling coyly.

Father: 'What did you and Joe talk about last night, dear?' Daughter: 'Oh, we talked about our kits and kin.'

Down in Arkansas a man was tried for assault and battery with intent to kill. The State produced as evidence the weapons used, a rail, a gun, axe and rifle.

After being out several hours the jury gave this verdict: 'We, the jury, would have given a dollar to see the fight.'

In a certain Western town, a beautiful chorus girl sued a rich banker for breach of promise and

Happy Days Are Here Again

June sees the start of that happy throng of motorists on their annual pilgrimage to the out-of-doors. (On your trip this summer, remember that you can keep in close touch with home and business by Long Distance telephone. Wherever you go, you will find a telephone from which you can call home quickly and at small cost.)

A Fast One For The Lord. A new minister was scandalized to observe the old vergar who had been collecting the offertory quietly extracting a two-shilling piece before presenting the plate at the altar rail.

All The Comforts of Home. A forgetful preacher, dining one day at a friend's house, turned to his wife, who sat by his side, in tones audible to all present.

Hot Lips. It seems that the absent-minded professor has a daughter, she tried to rouge her lips with the lighted end of a cigarette the other evening.—Pattinson.

The Taste Tells. 'Would you rather give up wine or women?' 'That depends on the vintage,'—Ulk, Berlin.
