months sojourn in California.

Mrs. I. B. Rihop entertained at a luncheon and bridge for her club recently at her home on Knox street. Floral decorations of pink, rosebuds, shasta daisies, and peonies adorned the tables. The club will be the guests of Mrs. E. C. Castell, of Ottawa drive, Pontiac, July 3.

Mrs. Robert H. Siau, Mrs. Frank Quail, Jr., and Mrs. C. J. Mers, members of the ladies bridge committee of the Pine Lake Country Club, are arranging a bridge-luncheon for June 25.

Mrs. Henry P. Macomber, of Bloomfield Hills, was hostess to a party of her friends at an attractive luncheon last Friday at the Fox and Hounds Inn. The ballroom of the inn was charmingly arranged for the affair and spring flowers and green tapers graced the luncheon table. The guests were Mrs. Samuel S. Marquis, Mrs. George G. Booth, Mrs. Robert C. Traub, Mrs. William O. Stevens, Mrs. Clarence H. Booth, Mrs. Charles W. Matheson, Mrs. James Vernon, Mrs. Walter Morley, Mrs. Albert J. Stahel, Mrs. James Vernon, Mrs. G. W. J. Lindberghs Soon Will Live Here, Say Reports

This is to be the future home of Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, according to reports. It is an old colonial home at Old Lyme, Conn., purchased by a cousin of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Lindbergh's mother-in-law. The intrepid flyer could land a plane on the vast front lawn if necessary.

Women Only

MEN, WOMEN, AND FASHION

The yielding of women to changes of fashion, whether they be convenient, comfortable, even ridiculous, is the subject of much criticism from the opposite sex. Their general consensus runs thus: "After years of struggling for comfortable frocks and less than six petticoats, they no sooner attain their ideas of dress, then—snap! thumbs down, and back again come the long flowing gowns and tight waists."

But when it comes to sensibility in dress, consider ye males suffering in stiff collars, vests and woolen materials on a scorching summer's day. In fact, there mode of dress is not the utmost in comfort at any season. If you don't believe it ask any man what he dons for a quiet evening at home. It's very apt to be a feminine looking silk robe and soft slippers. He may even go so far as to have fancy button holes of silk cord on the robe, and the material may even be figured. Just an example of the trend toward the feminine when in search of comfort.

Take their stiffly starched collars for example. Women tried them out years and years ago only to discard the style because it lacked comfort. But the dear men . . . they keep right on year after year, varying the style of the points maybe, but still propping up their chins with starched collars.

This is merely proof of the human trait, not a feminine one alone, to wear clothes like the other fellows. And the ridiculous and the uncomfortable assumes stylish airs if Fashion decrees it.

WITH WOMEN OF TODAY

BY MRS. LILLIAN CAMPBELL

By LILLIAN CAMPBELL

JANE ADDAMS of Hull House, Chicago, beloved dean of social workers, recently visited her friends. Dr. and Mrs. Amory Codman, on Beacon street, Boston.

Miss Addams scored the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment, saying that she sees prohibition as a benefit, but that severe penalties should be levied.

Miss Addams, with Miss Ellen Gates Starr, opened the social settlement of Hull House on South Halsted street, in 1889. She has been head resident ever since.

She is not only a well-known lecturer on social problems and international peace, but is the author of "Democracy and Social Ethics," "Sewer Ideals of Peace," "The Spirit of Youth and the City Streets," "Twenty Years at Hull House," "A New Conscience and an Ancient Evil," "The Long Road of Women's Memory and Peace and Bread in Time of War," which was published in 1922.

Lind's Sister-in-law Plans School

Miss Elizabeth Morrow, sister of Mrs. Charles Lindbergh and daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, senatorial nominee and ambassador to Mexico, plans to open a nursery school in Englewood, N. J., in the fall.

Brazilian Girls Reduce

Slenderizing diets when introduced in Rio de Janeiro by the Y. W. C. A. of Brazil, puzzled the members of the health education classes. "Shall we eat this diet before or after meals?" was the question of an enthusiast to Miss Helen Paulson, health director. Reducing classes have become a popular phase of the work. The use of diet or exercise to accomplish results is fascinating as well as new to them. Miss Paulson, who returned recently from Brazil, had charge of the recreation at the first girls camp there. When the camp was opened three years ago by the Y. W. C. A., it was difficult to convince parents that outdoor life was healthful for their daughters. The camp is now popular with parents as well as girls.

Where It Goes

"You've been looking a bit shabby of late, old man. Haven't you spent any money for new clothes lately?"

"Yes—damn hell!"—Bursts and Duds.

Successful Salads

The rules for the successful salad are simple. They are these: Have everything cold, even to the plates and bowl in which the salad is mixed. See that they are well flavored. Shred the vegetables or fruits into attractive form.

Be sure the lettuce or other greens and the garnishes are fresh in appearance. Don't let the lettuce leaf hang down over the edge of the salad plate. Put the ingredients together just before serving.
