CLOCKMAKING IN AMERICA TODAY IS A FINE ART

Women Only

For some reason or other, men just do dislike the great lovers of the screen that move women's hearts. Valentino, for instance, who thrilled millions of women, won the hatred of as many male members of his audience. Now Rudy Vallee wins the admiration of women and the scorn of men as he sings his stirring love songs in a melting voice.

A feminine mind figures the situation out like this: every man pictures himself as the world's greatest lover. Then along comes a Rudy or a Valentino. Fit! on him. Right or wrong, ye male readers.

Housewives who fret because Hubby doesn't get his top coat on his own hook, and whose cigarettes don't always hit the tray, think how monotonous life would be if nobody ever lost the top for the tooth-paste tube, or forgot to take off his rubbers before coming in on the clean kitchen floor.

There has come a reversal in the choice of colors among younger women and the more matronly class. It used to be that the older woman chose blacks and the darker hues. She was daring if she wore a matronly lavender.

But now we find the younger miss seeking out the blacks and choosing every accessory to match to achieve real smartness. While her mother and maiden aunt go in for the bright shades, in their quest of youth. But youth just will be different.

Women drivers have so long been the subject of humorists, wise crackers and male drivers who developed against those women who sit behind wheels. When a driver sees a car making a bit uncertain moves, he chants, "Another woman driver." If he is

BRAN COOKIES

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Weekly Tested Recipe)
One-half cup fat, one and one-half cups light brown sugar, two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, one-third cup molasses, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup raisins, one cup bran, one-fourth cup sour milk, two and one-fourth cups flour, one teaspoon soda. Cream fat and sugar, mix well and add eggs. Beat two minutes. Add other ingredients and drop table-spoons of mixture on to greased baking sheets. Space three inches. Flatten each cookie and bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

crowded over on the road. "Another woman driver." is the explanation. If someone fails to signal at a turn, or signals improperly, again his cue to exclaim, "Another woman driver."

All of this talk about long skirts has rather showed the discussion about long hair into the background. If you recall, it was the crowning glory that was causing the argument about a year ago now. And many a fair maiden with short tresses longed for the day when she could tuck hairpins into an actual plug.

Then the hair problem seemed to be settled for a while, with many deciding for the short, and others for the long. And now it's dress—lengths, we're worrying about. Feminine problems, like their work, are never done.

Today's luncheon menu is elaborate enough for a guest luncheon. The salad in the luncheon is made with the tender leaves of the spinach mixed with lettuce and maybe a bit of green onion. The menu is planned for three.

Today's Recipes

Almond Bisque—Two packages lemon flavored gelatin, four tablespoons sugar, one pint cream whipped, two teaspoons almond extract, one-half teaspoon salt, two cups boiling water, one cup cold water, twelve macaroons, rolled; eighteen marshmallows, cut in pieces; six tablespoons chopped candied cherries. The gelatin, sugar and salt are dissolved in the boiling water and the cup of cold water added. This is set in a pan of ice until mixture begins to thicken, then it is whipped till frothy. The whipped cream, flavored with almond, is added, and other ingredients folded in. This amount serves sixteen.

Shrimp Salad—One can of shrimp, diced and chilled; one sour pickle, two hard-boiled eggs and one small cucumber, also diced and chilled. Marinate in French dressing and serve with cheese wafers.

Date Muffins—One-half cup butter, one egg, three-fourths cup milk, two cups flour, one cup dates, chopped; one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter, add beaten egg, flour in which baking powder and salt have been sifted, and milk. Stir in chopped dates. Bake 25 minutes in hot oven. Sugar may be added if you desire.

For the Child's Sleep
For early and sound sleep give the small child a light evening meal. Whole wheat or cereal bread, milk to drink, fruit and a vegetable or an egg are sufficient.

Nana Wanted
Eating vegetables raw whenever possible is one way to get all the vitamins present and the soluble minerals which might be lost in the cooking water.

Tasty Relish—Four quarts sliced cabbage, two quarts green tomatoes, six large onions, eight peppers, green or red, two ounces white mustard seeds, one teaspoon tumeric, two pounds sugar, two tablespoons salt, two quarts vinegar. Boil till tender. Put in crock or jars.

Variogated Vases—Odd-shaped pieces may be cut from colored magazine advertisements as well as from envelope linings to make the paper patchwork vases. Fit them together on the vase, then use an old-style pen point to outline each piece with black enamel or India ink. The lines are much narrower than if a brush is used. After it is all dry varnish with clear varnish.

Arrangement of Food
The arrangement of food on the serving dish is important. It
