REFUELING FLIGHT OVER OCEAN FORECAST

By CLARENCE M. YOUNG
Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics
(Clarence Marshall Young was born at Colfax, Ia., July 23, 1889. He studied at Drake university, later receiving an LL.B. degree at Yale. He began practicing law at Des Moines, Ia., in 1910. From 1922 to 1925 he was executive secretary of the Municipal Research bureau at Des Moines. In 1926 he was named director of aeronautics in the U. S. department of commerce. He is a veteran of the World War.)

REFUELING of airplanes in flight undoubtedly will have practical use in commercial aeronautics.

Practical refueling is needed economically and development of a reliable system of providing additional fuel while in flight will assist in the establishment of a through trans-continental passenger service.

There isn't any question in my mind but what refueling will be given practical application.

It isn't going to take long for the average passenger to conclude that if something unusual is going to happen, he is no worse off if he is reclining comfortably in a bunk than if he is sitting up waiting for it. When that time comes I don't know how they are going to get out of refueling, at least during a substantial portion of the night hours. They cannot carry enough fuel to last eight or ten hours because that would mean sacrificing too much payload.

With 800 gallons of fuel which might be necessary to last eight or nine hours, if they could cut down the weight of the fuel from, say, 4,500 pounds to 2,000 pounds and have the balance of 2,500 pounds for payload, it would be the salvation of the company. There will need to be some development and some experience gained, but the thing has been fundamentally demonstrated. It is needed economically and I am sure it will be accomplished.

I understand that a full sized floating island is being constructed. I believe the idea is to put it midway between the east coast and Heranuda. I cannot venture anything in connection with it. I do not know the dimensions, but heavy type aircraft—and it will have to be heavy if it carries a payload—that distance will need ample room to land and take off. Whether or not the dimensions are up to that, I don't know. They may find a very practical value in some trans-oceanic service; surely they will provide adequate radio stations and refueling bases.

SCHOOL WELFARE MEETING IS HELD

Teachers' Club Assembles In Community House For Discussions

The Welfare Committee of the Birmingham Teachers' Club sponsored the regular meeting of the club held yesterday evening in the Community house. Mrs. Gertrude Cromie, of the Barnum School, was the chairman of the committee in charge.

R. H. McKinnon, an insurance agent, spoke to the group on the subject of Group Insurance. In his talk he outlined the advantages and disadvantages of such insurance and discussed with the teachers its value. The club will vote on the project for group insurance in the near future.

Clarence Vliet, superintendent of Birmingham Public schools, discussed with the group the Teachers' Retirement Fund bill. This bill goes to the Michigan State Legislature at Lansing for a vote at the next session to be held in January.

R. B. Richards, a singer of the First Methodist Church, sang several songs. A. W. Berndt, instrumental music director in the Birmingham Public schools, played a trumpet solo.

W. S. Toothaker, physics and chemistry instructor at Baldwin high school, discussed with the group the general problems that are immediately concerned with the duties of the Welfare Committee of the Teachers' Club. Games and light refreshments concluded the evening's meeting. Other members of the committee besides Mrs. Cromie are: Mr. Toothaker; Mrs. Muriel Brustie, Adams school; Mrs. Goldie Holbeck, Beaman high school; Mr. Merlyn Smiley, Adams Junior high; Lyla McCormick, Barnum Junior high school; Mary Cowper, Quacken school, and Margaret McDowell, Pierce school.

500 REGISTERED TO HUNT DEER

County Clerk Expects Three Times That Many When Season Opens

With approximately 500 hunters from Birmingham, Oakland County's contribution to Michigan's army of deer hunters will reach 1,500, in the opinion of Burton P. Daugherty, county clerk. There are now more than 500 hunters registered in the county and at least three times that many are expected to be licensed before the deer hunting season opens, Nov. 15, Mr. Daugherty announced.

Last year there were about 1,600 licenses in the county, Mr. Daugherty said. "While there are only about 300 registered now, it has been the practice of many deer hunters to apply for their licenses at the last minute."

George R. Hogarth, state director of conservation, expects that close to 75,000 hunters will invade the woods and swamps of the upper and lower peninsulas of the state this year, all confident of bringing home their bucks. It is difficult for the department to make an accurate check of the number of deer killed, but last year's estimates were that 16,000 bucks had been slain.

State residents must pay a fee of $2.50 and non-residents of the state are assessed $50 for a deer hunting license.

What Board of Supervisors Accomplished In Past Week

Actions vital to the affairs of Oakland County taken by the Board of Supervisors at its sessions and protracted judges included:

Approval of Supervisor Washington E. Irish's (Independence Township) plan for a test case in the State Supreme Court to determine legality of the Board's action last summer in adopting its equalization committee's report. State legal authorities had ruled the adoption of the report illegal because only a majority of the Supervisors were present—and not a majority of the Board as a whole—had voted for it. The Irish resolution for a test case was carried by a vote of 40 to 1 only Supervisor Charles Harmon of Pontiac dissenting.

Adoption of a motion by Supervisor Alfred Gale (Waterford) ratifying the Board's adoption of the equalization report of July 10 as well as its subsequent vote of Sept. 29 approving those valuations. The Gale motion carried by a vote of 38 to 3. Supervisors Harmon, Springsteen and McClure dissenting.

JENIES ACQUITTED AS DRUNK DRIVER

Village Shoe Repairman Found Not Guilty By Royal Oak Jury

K. Jenies, proprietor of a shoe repair store on East Maple avenue, was found not guilty by a jury in the court of Justice J. E. Bronckie, in Royal Oak, of drunk driving.

Jenies was arrested at Woodward and Glenwood avenues, Royal Oak, Sunday, Oct. 26 following an automobile accident. He drove his car into the rear of an Eastern Michigan motorbus which was being towed by a wrecker. Royal Oak police reported. His car then careened across the road and struck the wrecker. He was given first aid treatment at the Royal Oak hospital. Police said he had been drinking.

A plea of not guilty was entered at his arraignment the following day and he was released on $100 bond.

MAPLES FACE HAZEL PARK

Improved Baldwin Team Seeks Victory Tomorrow At Pierce Field

Baldwin High School's football opponent on Pierce Field tomorrow afternoon, Hazel Park, is not a Southern League team, as many will provide plenty of entertainment for the Marston and White rooters. Hazel Park's team doing fairly well this season. Birmingham is on the upgrade.

In Birmingham's last game against the team, Hazel Park, although losing the game by a 14-12 score.

But there are more games remain after tomorrow, of which one, Royal Oak, can affect Birmingham's standing in the League. Next Friday the team goes to Cranbrook School to meet the Cranbrook team, which has been undefeated this season except by Howe Military School. Birmingham will be Cranbrook's major opponent, and this will finish the Hills school's season.

The following Thursday Royal Oak will invade Birmingham to play the traditional Thanksgiving Day contest. Last year Birmingham won by a single touchdown on what the officials afterward told the team was the most perfectly-executed punt play they had ever seen in high school football.

Student organizations are already making plans for decorations and a general holiday and game-day spirit.

Coach E. T. Engle declined to say what tomorrow's lineup would be. "Scrimmage play will be necessary before I can name the team," the coach says.

Between the halves of tomorrow's game Baldwin, Adams and Barnum Junior high schools will stage a competitive piling contest under the supervision of Mr. Engle.
