

MICHIGAN SEES BIG TEN TITLE

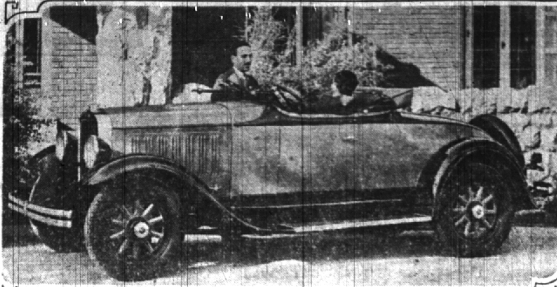

Only Minnesota And Chicago Bar Way To Sixth Championship

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 12.—Visions of Michigan's sixth conference football title since its return to the ranks of the Big Ten are floating over Ann Arbor. And to bar Michigan's way to such a championship or to a joint claim to such an achievement are Minnesota and Chicago. The first of these foes, and by far the most dangerous, lies directly ahead. It is Minnesota whose Maroon and Gold team Michigan will meet here Saturday afternoon.

Minnesota has been experiencing its on and off days this year. For when it held Stanford for a scoreless tie it was decidedly "on." But when it fell before the onslaughts of Vanderbilt and Northwestern, it was at least somewhat "off."

If Michigan can hurdle the hard-driving men from the north it is likely to go through the Big Ten season undefeated, unless Chicago should rise up and achieve the entirely unexpected. It then can lay a claim to the championship of one of the most exciting football leagues in the country. In 1918, it won two and lost no games in the Big Ten, and though the season was short, it was eligible to a claim to the title.

New Studebaker Six, Most Powerful Car of Its Price

The new Studebaker Six model pictured above is not only the lowest priced model in the entire Studebaker line, but is also the most powerful car ever offered at its price. Its brilliant 7-horsepower engine has more than proved its championship prowess in numerous hill-climbing feats during the past year. Unusually smooth performance is the result of a heavy 68-pound statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft, Lanchester vibration-damper, new full power muffler and rubber engine mountings. Price is $795 at the factory.

Gabrilowitsch, "A Natural Musician" Studied Under Europe's Greatest

The assertion by Rubinstein that the boy was grounded thoroughly in all branches of music including composition under Lidzky and Glazov. From the Petrograd Conservatory where he graduated when he was 16 years old, winning the most coveted honor in the conservatory—the Rubinstein prize.

While pursuing his piano studies the boy was grounded thoroughly in all branches of music including composition under Lidzky and Glazov. From the Petrograd Conservatory where he graduated when he was 16 years old, winning the most coveted honor in the conservatory—the Rubinstein prize.

He soon became a concert pianist of note appearing in the principal cities of Europe in recital, and as soloist with orchestras, and in 1900 came to America to gain more fame establishing himself so firmly that he made repeated successful tours of the United States until 1914 when he decided to make this country his home. In 1909, Gabrilowitsch married Clara Clemens, daughter of the late Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), thereby cementing his attachment to America.

Gabrilowitsch's first appearance as an orchestral conductor was in 1906 in Paris, Vienna and Manchester, Eng., in which latter city he was guest conductor following Richter's resignation. Later he had an orchestra of his own in Munich. Determining to make himself known as a conductor in America he accepted an orchestra in New York in the spring of 1917, giving a series of three symphony concerts with such success and critical approval that he repeated the series in 1918 and immediately found himself eagerly sought as a guest conductor by several orchestras. The Detroit Symphony Orchestra won out in competition for his services as permanent conductor in the fall of 1918.

The famous pianist-conductor will play here, Nov. 25 at the Community House, under the auspices of the Thursday Musicale.
