

TAP DANCING WILL SOME DAY BE RECOGNIZED ART, TEACHER SAYS

That jazz music and tap dancing will some day be recognized as true art, by even the most conservative of critics is the belief of Miss Evelyn Livingstone Smith, ballet dancer and dance instructor at the Community House.

The emphasis of rhythm, which during the past 20 years, has come to supplant time as the all important factor in both music and dancing, is an American trait, springing from the people, Miss Smith explained. Jazz and popular dancing are consequently forms of artistic expression of the American people, and will, in the future be recognized as such.

Symphony orchestras will play jazz, and the best classical dancers in the country will illustrate the ballet dancer, and dance instructor at the Community House.

Modern forms of dancing differ from each other as modern forms of music do. Based on, and interpretive of, the old classical music is the ballet dance, which is the real, classical dance. It is formal

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—
Mrs. C. D. Cole, 2440 York-shire road: "Women are often successful in business where men fail because they are willing to start a small way. A small profit will seem like big money to a woman who is anxious to making any money at all; while men usually are anxious to start with expensive equipment and large capital."

and stately; the body is held erect, and grace is achieved by the correct use of the hands and the feet. Proponents of modern dancing charge that the ballet is stiff, but Miss Smith, who loves it as an art, and prefers it above all other forms, does not find it so. Its importance is great, she says, because, in addition to being lovely, it is the foundation of all other kinds of dancing, with the exception of natural dancing, which contradicts the principles of the ballet.

Emphasizes Rhythm
Like modern classical music is the modern art dancing, interpretive of this music, and of course, founded on the ballet, Miss Smith continued. It sprang from the "modern German art," but differs from it as Americans differ from Germans. German art dancing tends more to force and vivacity, she explained, while American dancing emphasizes grace and rhythm to a greater extent. European art dancing are Kreutzburg and Georgi, who visited Detroit last winter and probably will return again this season. Leading American art dancers are the Doris Humphrey-George Weidman team and Martha Graham.

Popular dancing, including tap and social dancing, is interpreted popular, or jazz music, she explained. It has undergone an evolution contemporaneous with that of music, and like modern popular music, places most importance on rhythm. Time, which formerly was the chief factor in both, has now assumed in both a place in the background, and yielded precedence to strict rhythm.

PLUMSTEAD GIVES TAX STATEMENT

Delinquent Returns Higher But Finances Are Sound, Treasurer Says

Public finances of Birmingham are in good condition, judging by the low percentage of taxes returned as delinquent for 1936, compared with the high percentages turned back to some neighboring communities. Charles Plumstead, village treasurer, announced.

About 40 per cent of the tax roll was announced delinquent. While this is about 10 per cent higher than it has been for the last three years, it is considered a low average. Mr. Plumstead says. The figure on delinquent taxes was $223,364.97.

The recent three-year loan of $300,000 at the low rate of four and three-quarters percent, which is provided with annual taxes, to expedite money for village affairs until 1938, was made possible by the sound condition of the village's finances, he said.

This year's tax roll totals $544,164.13, of which the general tax is $335,780.28, and the special assessment $208,383.85. Of collected taxes $221,801.17 are general assessments and $88,997.99 special assessment.
