

LARCENY CHARGE HEARING, FRIDAY

Two Pontiac Men To Answer Warrant of Robbing Man in Hills

The examination of Peter Rowan, 43 Northview avenue, Pontiac, and Sam Bokasy, 35 Elizabeth street, Pontiac, on charges of larceny will be continued tomorrow in the court of Justice Floyd S. Buck. Upon the motion of attorneys for the defense, Herjan Greenberg and Yarr Hampton, Judge Buck granted the delay.

HE KNOWS HIS FLORA AND FAUNA, DOES HIS FAMOUS SCOTCHMAN

A man so familiar with the habits of fish that he can catch them with his bare hands; a man who can walk through an estate and, by use of the wind, moisture and ground temperature, can tell what animals live there and what plants are growing; a man who has been a Scotch-English gamekeeper on the great English estates since Thomas McClure, famous naturalist, who will speak in the Community House auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday.

Mr. McClure, who is president of the Audubon Society, vice-president of the Isaac Walton League, police, Chief William Putnam of the Bloomfield Hills Police department answered the call and lodged Broun in the village jail for the night. Attorneys for the defense wished to hear the testimony of Chief Putnam to find out whether or not Broun had been in a cottage to know what had transpired, they said.

THOMAS MCCLURE

and an officer of Rod and Fly and a number of other nature-loving sportsmen will talk on nature study. His services are donated for the benefit of the Birmingham Audubon Society, Boy Scouts of America. Proceeds from the talk will go toward expenses of the maintenance and improvement of Camp George, the district of Camp George, the district on Lower Long Lake, donated by Col. Edwin S. George. It is claimed for Mr. McClure that he is one of the few men who can catch fish without equipment. Great knowledge of their habits, feeding and resting places, and their likes is necessary. Last week he surveyed the tract of land surrounding the cabins at Camp George, and his observations on the fauna of the region will be made in his talk Friday night. There is no advance sale of tickets for the talk. An admission charge of 25 cents will be made. Scouts, parents, friends of scouting and anyone interested are invited to attend.
