Use this menu for a guest luncheon or dinner. Pineapple salad may be made by using the sliced pineapple sprinkled either with finely chopped nuts or cheese balls.

Today's Recipes

Stuffed Veal Chop—Have the chops cut thick, about an inch. Wipe off with a damp cloth and place in a greaser baking pan. Prepare a force meat of one and one-half cups uncooked chicken breast put through the fine blade of the grinder, one cup dried bread crumbs, three-fourths cup chicken stock, two egg whites beaten stiff, one teaspoon salt and a dash of cayenne. Cook the crumbs and stock to a paste, add the other ingredients and spread thickly over each chop. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, for 20 minutes, then reduce the heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and continue cooking for 25 minutes. If

The chops seem a little dry, baste with melted butter and water with some of the chicken stock.

Broccoli with Hollandaise Sauce—Sauce: One-half cup butter, three egg yolks, two tablespoons lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon white pepper, one-half cup boiling water. Beat the butter to a cream, add the unbeaten egg yolks one at a time, and beat well between each addition. Add lemon juice and seasonings. About five minutes before serving time add the boiling water, a little at a time, stirring constantly. Place over hot water and cook until sauce thickens like a boiled custard.

The broccoli in a single thickness of cheesecloth and drop into boiling water, or steam over boiling water. Remove in exactly 15 minutes and serve at once. Overcooking will give the vegetable a strong unattractive flavor.

Sand Tarts—One-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, one egg, beaten, one and three-fourths cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one egg white, one tablespoon sugar, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, blanched almonds. Cream shortening and add sugar slowly, then the beaten egg. Sift the flour and baking powder together and add. Roll out a small portion of the dough at a time just as thin as possible, and cut with a doughnut cutter. Brush over with the slightly beaten egg white, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, mixed together, and decorate with the split halves of the almonds. Place on a greased sheet and bake in a low oven, 300 degrees, until a delicate straw color.

CASS

"The Street Singer" described by its producers, the Messrs. Shubert, as an unusual musical comedy with a smart Parisian setting and starring that magnetic comedienne Genevieve Smith, will be the attraction at the Cass Theatre for one week commencing Sunday.

Outriders report that "The Street Singer" possesses an interesting plot and that the appeal of the drama in it vies with that of the musical score which incidentally boasts of two outstanding hits, "So Beats My Heart For You" and "I May Be Wrong But I Think You're Wonderful." Both of these musical numbers have been "whistling" hits for months and still continue to lead all other popular songs in radio programs.

Besides the nimble Miss Smith, there is a cast of notables as found George Hassell, Harry K. Morton, Nick Long, Jr., Eddie Macch, Helen LaVonne, Edna Maple, Frank Lator, and Archie Garpe. Advance reports say that the musical is a gem, the plot is the most gripping and the most fast and dancing chorus that has ever been put upon the stage. The story is the story of the memorable ensemble of "Good News."

The book which is the work of Cyrus Wood and Edgar Smith, leads with a young and wealthy American, who is in Paris, and Paris street gain and make her a lady of the highest social quality of the story is "Pygmalion" and a real "Cinderella" twist.

The music was written by Nicholas Schubert and the lyrics are by Graham Jones. The settings were done by Watson and the show was staged in London by Marcel Varnel, late of the Mou-

Stoker's famous novel from which the play was adapted has thrilled thousands of readers. In its dramatization the novel has been admirably treated, having lost little, if anything, in its transition from the original pages of the book to the spoken words of the stage.

The story of "Dracula" concerns itself with the personal diodes of vampires, those spooky personages of whom our ancestors were so fond of believing in. Apparently dead creatures, these vertiginous beings of the other world continue to live on in their graves, without any sign of corporeal decay. Nightly, according to the legends, they emerge from the tomb and suck the blood from the living people and return evening after evening to the same victim who consequently dies. Of such John Bakerston fashion the play "Dracula." Horace Liveright bought the American rights after seeing the play in England where it ran for four years.

SHUBERT-DETROIT

Howard Hughes' breath-taking spectacle, "Hell's Angels," is now in its third capacity week at the Shubert-Detroit Opera House. Because of the fact that this great picture was three years in the making and that four million dollars was spent in its production, the interest of the public was so intense that it was found necessary to have a dual-premiere in New York City at the Criterion and Gaiety Theaters where it has been playing for nearly three months.

LITTLE THEATER

For the first time in Detroit the Little Theater Players will present Edmond Rostand's "Last Night of Don Juan," Friday, Oct. 24, and nine consecutive nights thereafter. The playhouse is in the Twentieth Century Club building, 58 East Columbia, near Woodward.

This is the last and probably most distinguished work of Edmond Rostand, who joined the immortals with his "Cyrano de Bergerac." It was first published after his death in 1918 and has seldom been produced in the United States. A year or two ago, George Jean Nathan, not the mild critic, saw it staged in the little Greenwich Village Playhouse and announced the next day he had "justified 1,000 previous dull nights in the theater."

Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, October 19. Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And in the same hour he cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits; and unto many that were blind he gave sight." (Luke 7:21)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The mission of Jesus confirmed prophecy, and explained the so-called 'miracles' of olden times as natural demonstrations of the divine power, demonstrations which were not understood, Jesus' words established his claim to the Messiahship." (p. 131)

SECRETARY OF STATE

Miss Alice Grosjean not only is the first woman state official in Louisiana, but she probably is the youngest secretary of state in the country. Just 24, she has been private secretary to Governor Long, Louisiana's appointed chief executive who appointed her secretary of state upon the death of the incumbent, James J. Bailey. Governor Long now is the Democratic nominee for senator from his state, which is tantamount to election.
