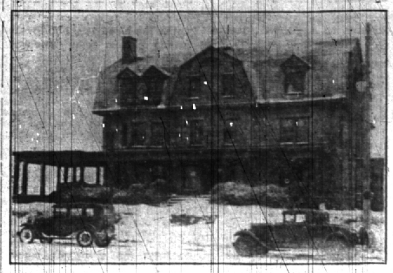
Landmark Razed



Workmen today are razing one of Birmingham's landmarks, the old Stearns home, more recently occupied by the Chatean Tea Room, at the corner of Woodward avenue and Willits street. The home, shown above, was built in 1896 and for many years was one of the most handsome residences on Woodward avenue.

Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, of Rochester, the present owner of the property, is having part of the materials shipped to her property at Rochester, for storage, workmen report. Eight of Mrs. Wilson's private workers are removing the structure and the job is expected to be completed early next week.

One of the remarkable features of the house were the five fireplaces, three on the ground floor and two upstairs. Built 32 years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, the house contained a pleasant playroom for boys and many children used to gather there to enjoy their games, Harold H. Corson, who at one time was one of the "boys," recalls.

Mr. Stearns died while the house was under construction and the family lived there for 16 years, selling the property to Miss Addie Sly in 1912. Miss Sly lived in the home until 1925 when she sold it to Mrs. Wilson. For several years the building was used as a tea room and village service clubs hold their meeting there. Mrs. Stearns, after selling the house to Miss Sly, moved to Ypsilanti where she lived with a sister until several years ago.

The building was constructed of colored limestone and was excellently built. Mr. Wilson yesterday said that he found it necessary to raze the property because he could not obtain satisfactory rental of it. Some of the materials will be moved to the Wilson farm, "Meadowbrook" near Rochester, for storage, and the remainder of it will be sold, Mr. Wilson said.

The house is reported to have been sold to Miss Sly for $6,000. A parcel of the property later was sold as a site for a store, the reported purchase price being in the neighborhood of $1,500 per front foot.

CRANE'S WRITING PAPERS

BECAUSE CHARM in correspondence depends so largely on the writing paper, you should insist on using Crane's. Individuality, true individuality, is to be found in its unusual dignity.

And to be particularly charming, and most individual, let a monogram distinguish your writing paper. Your use of the stampings with their rich, colorful beauty and excellent good taste will deem you immediately, as a person well versed in those things that are authentically correct!

Name cards for college men and women will be needed, too, for the coming collegiate social season. For these at a time, now, to be placing orders.
