SCOUT EVENTS

Friday, Oct. 17, is the tentative date set by the Birmingham District Committee for the first of this year's series of three Boy Scout courts of honor, to be held at the Community House.

By the new plan courts will be held three times each year, in October, January, and May. Formerly they have been held in November and May or June. Members of the district committee feel that this is too long an interval between courts, H. D. Crull, commissioner, says.

It is expected that at this court at least one Eagle Scout badge will be awarded, to James R. Packard, of Troop 3, who completed the requirements at Camp Kalakonah, the Detroit Scout camp on Thunder Bay, near Alpena. It is also possible that other Eagle Badges will be awarded, as will Eagle Palms, merit badges, and other awards, particularly those made at Scout camps. These are also awarded in duplicate at the camp high court of honor in Detroit, usually at Northern High School.

Troop 3 Meets

Troop 3, Birmingham Boy Scouts, held its first meeting of the year last night under the leadership of its new Scoutmaster, Alfred C. Schalm, manual arts instructor at Barnum Junior High School.

Mr. Schalm succeeds H. D. Crull, principal of the Barnum School, who is now commissioner of the Birmingham District. He has had considerable scouting experience, and for the past several years has been director of the Fort Hill Council Scout camp, near Sturgis. This camp includes the village of Sturgis and adjoining towns in the district.

Probable plans for the beginning of Mr. Schalm's activity with the troop include an overnight camp at Camp George in the near future, he says. The same officers of the troop will be retained for some time at least, to enable him to get started.

Plan Mystery Hike

Plans for a district mystery hike for Birmingham Boy Scouts are under way today, although the date has not definitely been set, it is announced for the local Scout committee by H. D. Crull, commissioner of the district.

The event will be held in October, and will end in some place which is entirely new to Birmingham Scouts.

The mystery hike idea is an annual function of the Detroit Council. Formerly Scouts hiked, now they usually go by train or boat to an unannounced destination.

Leo B. Billings, of Lakeview avenue, returned to his position as Scoutmaster of Troop 1, Birmingham Boy Scouts, this week. Mr. Billings left Birmingham, expecting to make his home in Akron, O., but changed his plans and will continue to reside in Birmingham.

In his absence, Leo Gibbons, assistant Scoutmaster, conducted affairs of the troop. "While not actively called upon for service with the troop, it is a significant and praiseworthy fact that Mr. Gibbons was ready to take the helm and conduct the troop as Scoutmaster," according to H. D. Crull, district commissioner.

DOCTOR COMES 5,000 LONG MILES FOR THE SAKE OF HIS TECHNIQUE

Technique is an acquired manner of performance and can scarcely be accomplished through the mails. Which is one of the reasons for a visit to Birmingham last week by Dr. Wilfred A. Streeter, an Anglicized American, now practicing in London, Eng. Varicose veins can scarcely be considered an inspiration to travel. Yet, the combination of the two prompted Dr. Streeter to leave his practice in London and come to the United States for a few days last week.

The technique Dr. Streeter sought is possessed by a Birmingham osteopath, Dr. W. H. Gillmore. And because Dr. Streeter wanted to learn Dr. Gillmore's technique for treatment of varicose veins he boarded the "Aquitania" and started on the 5,000 mile journey.

"Varicose veins," Dr. Gillmore explains, "are largely the result of hereditary weakness of the valves in the veins. They are usually formed through the breaking down of vein compartments.

Normally the blood flows down through the leg and back through two systems of veins. To get the blood back to the heart, nature provides valves in the veins which permit the blood to go up by preventing it from going downward. When these compartments sag and break, varicose veins result. As the downward pressure of the blood increases, the veins stretch to become larger around, and become longer. The disturbed circulation causes pain and the resulting protrusion of the veins is unsightly."

In the course of many years' study of the treatment of varicose veins, Dr. Gillmore has fixed upon a simple treatment, he says, which, while not original, is based upon a theory of absorption. Many others have adopted his treatment, and Dr. Streeter came all the way from England in order to learn Dr. Gillmore's method and manner of giving the treatment.

Together, for a few days, the two men have been interested in case treatments of varicose veins, and on Wednesday, Dr. Streeter began his homeward journey. Dr. Streeter, who was born in the United States, went to England 18 years ago and was one of the modern pioneers there in the practice and teaching of osteopathy.

On Aug. 3, Dr. Streeter had introduced into the House of Commons, a petition bearing 15,000 signatures, recommending that osteopathy be officially recognized. The bill was approved and has been sent to the Ministry of Health for consideration.

Charsketches Win Award For Arnold

Two studies in charsketch, an artistic method of photographic development and production that closely resembles the charcoal sketch, are on display in the windows of the Shettler Drug Co. stores at Maple and Woodward avenues.

These excellent photographs, the work of A. E. Arnold, Birmingham photographer, recently were awarded prizes by the Photographic Association of America and are included in its 1930 loan exhibit. The late Frank Hagerman, prominent in the life of the village for many years, is the subject of one study and Miss Rosalie Kahn, of Detroit, the sister of Mrs. Harry L. (Winston) 483 Aspen road, is the subject for the second portrait.

Of three photographs entered in the annual competition by Mr. Arnold, two were accepted.
