CONFERENCE ON INDUSTRY WILL BE HELD AT PINE LAKE HOUSE, OCT. 3-5

Many Birmingham residents are expected to take part in the Conference on Industry, which will be held Oct. 3, 4, and 5, at Holiday House, Pine Lake, under the auspices of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The conference will open Oct. 3 at 7:30 p. m., with registrations. A talk will be given that evening by Bishop Paul Jones, student pastor of Antioch College, on "The Current Situations which are Delaying Such Social Programs as Old Age Pensions, Unemployment Insurance, and a League for Independent Political Action."

Saturday morning and afternoon sessions will be devoted to discussions of Old Age Pensions, on which subject, Hon. Frank Murphy, Mayor of Detroit, J. J. Scannell, secretary of the Michigan Federation of Labor; Harry Riseman, chairman of the Michigan Old Age Pension League; and William Frost, of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Engineers, will give talks.

Unemployment Service will be the topic of discussion Saturday evening, when speeches will be made by Nevin Sayre, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation; E. J. Jeffries, former Judge of the Recorders' Court, and candidate for governor, and Eugene J. Brock, commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry.

Lovett On Program

On Sunday morning, members will hear talks on Unemployment Insurance. Speakers on this occasion will be John Lovett, Secretary of the Michigan Manufacturers' Association; Harry Slavin, a drafter of the Constitutional Amendment to Unemployment Insurance for Michigan; William Bailey, president of the Musicians' Union; and Hallen Bell, of the Unemployment Insurance League.

During the afternoon, political action will be discussed, under the leadership of Mr. Sayre. A meeting to consider work for the year will be held that evening, bringing the conference to a close.

When making reservations, those interested are advised to send registration fee of $1 to Mrs. Clara L. Naysmith, 9889 Chenlot avenue, Detroit. Cars will meet all those planning to go to Holiday House at the intersection of Woodward and Maple avenues. Holiday House is on the West Bloomfield road, one-half mile north of Long Lake road, on Pine Lake.

Mrs. Frederick H. Holt, of Birmingham, is president of the Michigan branch of the organization, and Mrs. George T. Hendrie is past president.

SERVICE MEASURED NOT BY GOLD . . . BUT BY THE GOLDEN RULE

Tremendous Progress has been made in the mortuary calling during the years just behind us, progress that has taken the funeral director out of the merchandising class he once held, and put him on a professional basis.

Some authorities claim that greater strides have been made in this ancient science during the last 25 years than in the preceding two thousand. We have always striven mightily to remain in the ranks of the foremost.

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

GOOD, OLD GOLF is more or less of an unnatural game.

It is a game of hitting against the left side and that point cannot be overlooked when swinging through with the club.

In most of our other games we hit around and high whereas in golf it is against and down, taking back and hitting against the knees, to make the point clearer.

As you come back to your backswing, so will you finish.

In the smaller illustration you will see how the club is kept low along the ground and how the hands are held to keep the break of the wrists in control.

Coming back in this fashion the golfer gets into the ball in the same manner. If he should break his wrists as the club head is leaving the ball he would come into the ball in the same manner and would consequently have a slice to the rough.

This is all important in coming into the ball and punching through with the right hand toward the hole.

Picture the swing as hitting against the left side and not around in an arc to the left. This left arc causes untold trouble. The hands may get into the ball early or late. To get them in ahead of the ball or too late means a slice, and to get into the ball after the club head spells a hook.

Try to meet and hit against the left as the shoulder and hands and club head come in contact with the ball. That means a straight ball, hit more or less from the inside out with a good carry and plenty of roll.

County Comment

NEXT to the usual sheaf of prohibition violation cases, divorce suits hold sway in Oakland County courts.

Forty-three petitions, for divorce and two for annulment were filed in the County Clerk's office during the month of August and the September petitions promise to exceed that number.

Couples married in other cities and who later become residents here are involved in a majority of the cases. Only a few are natives of the county.

Cruelty and non-support are charged in 90 percent of the petitions. Four charged drunkenness and five desertion.

Unemployment, leading to discontent, quarreling and domestic battling is a story woven into most of the pleas for freedom.

Of 56 criminal cases called for arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court at the opening of the September term, 42 were for violations of the prohibition laws. An unusual number of respondents, unrepresented by counsel, entered pleas of guilty and expressed willingness to take whatever punishment was meted out to them.

The duck hunting season opened this week with more hunters than wildfowl. Only a few pintail and occasional small flights of teal and mallard were reported in this section. Due to the drouth, sections which in other seasons were veritable hunters' paradises, are among the poorest this year. And hunters in this district probably will not enjoy any real sport until later in the season.

Republican nominees for county offices are planning to start vigorous campaigns against their Democratic opponents next week and to keep up the ballyhoos until election day. While nomination in the Republican primaries here has long been tantamount to election, this appears to be a season of political upsets and nobody wants to take a chance. The Democratic nominees for many of the offices are recognized as able men and there is every evidence of some stiff fighting for votes in the weeks to come, with a continuance of political motoreading, stump speaking and spellbinding.

A DILIGENT effort is being made by deputies under Sheriff Frank Schram to round-up ringleaders of what is believed to be an organized band of petty thieves and burglars whose operations during the last fortnight have caused alarm in various parts of the county.

The robberies have noticeably been in two classes—the entering of homes and the ransacking of clothing and receptacles where money and valuables are usually kept; and the burglarizing of small business places, such as gasoline stations, groceries and shops where small sums of money are kept overnight in cash registers.

Evidently none of the depredations has been the work of "experts" or "professionals." No attempts have been made to crack even the smallest of safes and the better protected business establishments and homes have not been bothered.

Nevertheless the work gives evidence of organization. For example, the recent series of burglaries in Rochester, where in the period of two hours more than 10 homes were forcibly entered and systematically ransacked for loot. Deputies point out that at least a small group of men would be required to carry on such an operation.

The burglaries affecting shops and gas stations bear similarity in the manner of entering, investigators having found that small but powerful irons were used, in almost all cases, to jimmy doors and windows.

Several suspects have been arrested.

DIVORCE INDUSTRY IS BOOMING

The 18,000 residents of Reno, Nev., have no complaint to make about the business depression this year which has struck other cities. Divorce, its leading industry, is bringing in approximately $3,000,000 annually to local trade channels and the market is running well over par. Washoe courthouse, above, in the heart of Reno, boasts more divorces than any other building in the world. An increase over the 2,166 Reno divorces granted last year has been forecast.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

Francis F. McKinney, of 587 Greenwood avenue: "In spite of the fact that no two people are agreed on just to what extent 'co-operation' in farming should be carried, the newly inaugurated co-operative movement will go far toward accomplishing permanent agricultural relief. When farmers take advantage of the modern merchandising methods that other industries have employed for years, they, too, may expect to share in America's prosperity. Farming will then become less a gamble and more an economically sound business."
