In the first flight of the championship tournament for women at the Birmingham Golf Club, Miss Jean Wilcox, one of the low scorers in the Girls' Junior District Golf Association tournament this summer, was victorious, defeating Mrs. J. E. Dew, six and five, on the 34th hole.

The organization of groups in the schools," Mr. Lynd said.

John B. Purvis, whose engineering services have been a valued asset to the village for many years, had been experimenting and inventing things ever since he was a boy. Usually Mr. Purvis' inventions have improved mechanical means for transmitting power by water or steam but among his scale models is a combination folding bed and dresser that would fit compactly in the modern apartment house bedroom, this Wanderer learns.

Birmingham's village commission, like most legislative bodies, does a thorough job of discussion before taking definite action on proposals. This Wanderer observes. An indication of the length of these weekly discussions was brought forward Monday night. Mr. Edgar C. McBride, whose property assessment problems were the subject of much debate and comment by each individual member of the commission, finally agreed to an adjournment of the discussion until next Monday night when a hearing on the special assessment will be held. He thanked the Village Fathers for their courtesy and bade them good night. About 10 minutes later Mr. McBride returned to get some papers he had left. Commissioner Robert R. Allen, as if astonished at the length of time spent by the commission, remarked: "What! Have we been here a week?"

The devotion of some of Birmingham's residents to the Birmingham Eccentric is so deep that in at least one case it penetrated to the unconscious (or the subconscious, according to the school of psychology you follow). Before launching into the story, a little explanation is necessary. This villager has a list of women whom she calls weekly for social news. Yesterday, in calling this list, she heard the following amazing tale: the woman in question dreamed that she had made a canvass of all the houses in Birmingham, and, as a result, the woman champion of the Orchard Lake Country Club is Mrs. Vene G. Perry, of Detroit, who defeated, in the finals, Mrs. Stacy Skelton, of Pontiac, by a score of six and five.

Mrs. Samuel Garber, of Birmingham, was victorious over Mrs. M. W. Cochran, of Bloomfield Hills, in the first flight. Awarding of honors and a luncheon for women golf fans will be held Oct. 10 to close the season.

A return inter-club match was played Thursday between the women of Oakland Hills Country Club and those of Flint at Oakland Hills. The local women were again victorious by a large margin, as they were when they played several weeks ago at the Flint club, winning by a score of 49½ to 7½. About 45 women, representing both clubs, took part in the tournament, which was followed by a bridge-luncheon.

Winners for Oakland Hills were, low gross, Mrs. J. H. DeVisser,

Fall Is Best Time To Make New Lawn

It won't be necessary to envy your neighbor's beautiful lawn next spring if you get the right start this fall. A velvety lawn isn't a question of luck, but largely a matter of getting the right start and then giving proper care to your lawn.

During the favorable fall weather, the grass seed germinates quickly, and with the proper plant food, a steady sustained growth takes place through the fall season. At this time weeds are not so troublesome, for most weed seeds germinate in the spring and summer, not in the fall.

This will assure a good supply of balanced plant food, and will enable the grass to make a sturdy, vigorous growth and develop a sturdy root system before winter sets in. A sturdy root system is the best possible insurance against winter.

NEW HOUSE NUMBERING SYSTEM TURNED DOWN

The new system of house numbering by which residence numbers are stenciled on the stones in front of the houses, as suggested by Harlow P. Davock, and inaugurated by the Village Commission Monday night, Commissioner Lawrence Hulbert's motion that Mr. Davock be informed that his system of numbering did not interest the commissioners at this time was passed by the commission.

Mr. Davock's system, it was explained, is similar to a system being inaugurated in Highland Park for placing street name signs on the curb stones at intersections.
