UNCLE SAM'S NEW CRUISERS WILL BE AIRCRAFT CARRIERS

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
Washington, Aug. 7.—America's new six-inch gun cruisers, under the London naval treaty, essentially will be small aircraft carriers—miniature Lexingtons and Saratogas—according to British experts, who describe them as a good deal of detail in English technical publications.

This may be one of the most infrequent cases in which the neighbors know more about our business than we ourselves know.

From what I hear at the navy department, Uncle Sam's construction are still thinking over the problems raised by the London treaty; however, possibly some of them have talked tentatively with overseas specialists—fishing for other's ideas and trying to ascertain the latter's opinions concerning their own. Such chats do occur among fellow-craftsmen.

If the new vessels are to be "miniature Lexingtons and Saratogas" it is possible to visualize them pretty well by examining either one of our big aircraft carriers through a diminishing glass.

Originally the Lexington and the Saratoga were to have been battle cruisers—a battle cruiser classing as a capital naval vessel, like a battleship, but faster, and to permit of this greater speed, somewhat less heavily protected.

The Washington five-power treaty of 1921-22 forced us to leave the upper deck almost entirely clear for the taking off and landing of planes.

The ships proper (practically twin craft) are 310 feet long with a 106-foot beam; but their flying decks have an overhang, fore and aft, which gives them an extreme length of 380 feet.

Their speed is between 33 and 35 knots, and, by bringing them up into the wind and blowing ahead under full steam a plane is enabled to take off with a run of rather less than 300 feet.

The complement of planes per ship is about 72, of which 36 are bombers.

Displacement—33,000 tons; huge vessels.

Cost—planes and all, about $45,000,000 each.

In congress, from some sources,

THE U. S. SARATOGA

deck space in one respect should be an advantage, as affording a more difficult target to enemy aircraft.

One British authority speaks of as many as 75 planes contemplated as the complement per cruiser—a ridiculously large number, however. Such ships might, some American experts say, provide accommodations for as many as 20 planes; certainly not more than that.

(Two is the ordinary number for British craft of the eight-inch cruiser type, but these vessels, to be sure, are not designed especially for aircraft carrying.)

The American ships' batteries, as English naval writers publish the story, will consist of nine six-inch guns mounted in three turrets, piled pyramidally at the starboard side of the flight deck of each vessel.

The cost per cruiser is estimated (by the British) at around $12,000,000.

and now on file with the Village Clerk, and he further revealed that the Village of Bloomfield Hills shall pay from the general fund the amount of $1,250.00, approximately 24 1/2% of the cost of the improvement.

Be it further resolved, that the Village Treasurer, or his authorized agent, be and he is hereby directed, to procure the necessary plans and specifications for the improvement, and to advertise for proposals therefor, and to accept the same, and to let the contract therefor, and to execute the same, and to pay for the same, and to do all things necessary and proper to be done in the premises.

Bits Of News Gleaned From Old Files Of The Eccentric—The Items That Made Up The Historical Background Of The Birmingham Of Today.

FIFTY YEARS AGO
Miss Hatty P. Jenks, of Sand Beach, Mich. is visiting Maggie J. Smith, of Southfield.

Mr. Horace Hall and wife and granddaughters, Misses Alice and F. H. Goodman, of Clare, has returned to Birmingham, and whether he goes back or not is yet undecided.

Philip Durkee has returned from the racing business and looks first rate.

Charlie Parker fills a position as drug clerk at Howell and would be glad to see any of his Birmingham friends at any time.

A buggy in the barn of W. H. Campbell, was blown through the barn on Thursday night, and took a flying leap out of the barn door, and knocked the hired man senseless. The hired man will recover, but the buggy will need some care and attention.

The $1,500 school house in District No. 9 of Southfield will soon be ready for occupancy. It is brick and presents a tasty appearance. The young folks intend giving a party before the plastering, in order to raise funds for buying a bell.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Rev. Houghton and wife and Rev. Williams and wife spent Monday afternoon and enjoyed tea with Messdames Beddow and Aldrich.

A peculiar acting man was being watched by the sheriff on our streets Thursday. It is thought he was from the asylum at Pontiac.

Mrs. Fred Gordon is visiting her many old time friends in her old neighborhood—the mud mill—remember it?

Now Mrs. J. F. Hundel is making a sensible visit for her summer vacation. Instead of sweating and being unhappy among strangers in a foreign country, she is taking a "two weeks' visit" with her sister and other relatives in west of our village and will be just as much away from home as if she were in Europe.

The stork made no mistake in leaving a bright, bonnie boy at the home of LaVergie Hamberg on Wednesday. Good place to grow up amongst good people.

Miss Orpha Spieker has gone on an extended visit among relatives in the City of Pontiac.

and Mrs. Vester Spicer, of Oakland Avenue, is thought to be called in to see the doctor, who has full discharge of the stork's work in the hands.

Something during the last week in September an unprincipled burglar will be credited to the public for having broken Pontiac and Detroit. The burglar will probably be old to foot step that has served to link them two cities since 1810.

Rev. William W. Ryan of the Holy Name church attended the service of the late Mrs. Spicer in September at the home of the late Mrs. Spicer, 44 East Avenue, where she had full discharge of the stork's work in the hands.

The unexpected discharge of a shotgun which he was moving from the rear-seat of his automobile while on his vacation at Highland Lake Monday afternoon, fatally wounded Captain Henry Spicer, the 17 year old son of Mr. Spicer.
