GOWNS, FLOWERS MINGLE AT WEDDING

Novel Features Announced For September Flower Show

WEEKLY SPLASH IS HELD IN BARNUM POOL

The chapel of the Michigan League building on the campus of the University of Michigan will be the scene of an interesting wedding the afternoon of Aug. 20 when Miss Margaret Pepler of Rockford becomes the bride of Mr. Foster S. Hascall of Birmingham.

Miss Pepler is the daughter of Dr. Julius S. Pepler of Rockford, and Mr. Hascall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hascall of Oakland avenue.

The marriage service will be read by the Rev. D. H. Ramsdell of Ann Arbor at 2 o'clock, and will be followed by a reception in the Michigan League building.

Attending the bride as matron of honor will be Mrs. A. Bostwick Chapman of Ann Arbor. Clarence Bennett of Royal Oak will attend Mr. Hascall as best man.

Mr. Hascall, who was educated in Birmingham schools, graduated from the Baldwin High School in 1922, after which he attended the College of the City, where in 1925 he entered the law school of the University of Michigan, and in 1928 received his L.L.B., passing the bar examination in 1929. Two years ago he was appointed deputy county clerk to succeed Donald Nogle. Mr. Hascall makes his home with his parents in Birmingham.

The society editor sat in her seat, and he was now being read with care. Mentally she was asking herself, "What could be done about it? How could she ever explain it?"

She was faced with one of those problems beside which the unemployment situation, the financial depression, the international fight and all the rest of the world's perplexities paled into insignificance.

What had happened?

A compositor, new on the job, substituting for the regular "make-up" man who was on his vacation, had committed the unforgivable error of using the right picture and the wrong name, when he "made up" the society pages.

And the next morning when the society editor eagerly looked at the paper, she was greeted by a heart-quickening leap and did the swan dive—right down, down, down.

She knew—how well she knew!—how complicated can be the responsibility of editing. It was something so easily understood by the man of woman familiar with the routine and problems of a newspaper office. Every now and then a compositor will startle the readers by a mistake of this kind. You see, last week a man, new on the job, as we explained, inserted the story concerning Miss Rosemary Potter of Long Lake and under the picture of Mrs. Lane Bishop of Poppleton avenue, substituting the lines referring to Mrs. Bishop who is hostess at her summer home to a group of Birmingham girls.

It was just too bad, we feel so sorry about it, more than even Miss Potter and Mrs. Bishop can realize, because we have a strong professional pride in the accuracy and appearance of our society pages.

But what can be done when the error has gone out to the world in the irrevocable black and white of the printed page?

Nothing, but to offer this explanation. And we feel sure that once understood, it will be forgotten because it is a "useless" thing that happens in the best of regulated offices.

The picturesque setting of a Bloomfield Hills garden served as a background for the wedding of Miss Carol Clark Colton and Mr. Forest Lancashire Keenan, who were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Franklin Keenan of South Cranbrook road.

Miss Colton is the daughter of Mr. Jessie Widner Colton of Detroit and Bloomfield Hills, and Mr. Keenan is the son of Mr. Joseph William Keenan of Detroit.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock with the Rev. William W. Ryan, pastor of St. Hugo of the Hills, officiating. The bride entered the garden from a stone terrace and approached the pool, at which were placed four urns filled with delphinium and gladioli, where the marriage rites were read.

The bride was gowned in an Empire style of blue satin, trimmed with white lace and coming cut "in" with a ruffled and the sleeves were long and full. The bride wore a long and fashion. The bride, by prevailing blue tulle fell gracefully from a flower of lace after the manner of Empress Eugenie. A shield of delphinium shading from pale blue to the deeper shade of purple, and attached to the waist, was the floral bride bouquet.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Keenan, sister of the groom, who was of pink point d'esprit over tulle. The skirt was long and full and the waist was of a large white tulle with which the neckline was finished, and which crossed at the waist into a large cluster of forget-me-nots. She wore a "picture" hat of pink tulle with a large white bow, and her bouquet was a dainty combination of pink roses, blue and distinguishing white.

As seasons change so do games. Spring, summer, winter, and fall have their own attractions in the way of sports, which to while away the leisure hour.

A versatile group in Birmingham met on Wednesday evening at the various village schools to play badminton during the fall and winter months. After playing at the schools, the same group adapts itself to the climatic conditions, and turns to swimming and outdoor supper parties for the Wednesday evening job.

During the summer, and after the opening of the Barnum pool, the group has reserved for its swimming time from 6 to 7:30 P. M. Wednesday evenings, when it held its splash party, this week. After the swim, the custom has been to meet at the home of one of the group for an outdoor supper. Even though the Barnum pool may close, the swimming parties will continue, members of the group say, probably in one of the nearby lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Royal of Madison avenue were the hosts of the outdoor supper Wednesday. The group includes besides Mrs. Royal, Mrs. E. W. Stoddard, Mrs. Harold Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hiltman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Tilstrom, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Colgrove, Dr. J. B. Hainberger, Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe Spinning, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. John Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stern and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Barry of Royal Oak.

As soon as the schools open, the group will resume its badminton on indoor courts.

Mr. John H. Gordon, of Baldwin avenue, and his sons, John Hunter, Jr., and Clayton Hill, will leave this week for Lake City, Mich., where they will be guests of their mother, Mrs. Gordon's mother, Mrs. John Peterson.
