Table Arguments Pose Puzzlers For Staff At Library

"What I want to know is—what makes peanuts grow?"

A small boy firmly planked himself in front of the desk at Baldwin Public Library and earnestly asked the question. Perhaps he was especially fond of peanuts and wanted to raise a few, or maybe he wanted some to feed to his elephants at the zoo. Whatever his object, he went away quite satisfied with the answer he received.

His question is typical of the hundreds asked from time to time of attendants at the library, according to Mrs. Nancy B. Thomas, librarian. While children are the most frequent questioners, they are not the only ones who appreciate the fund of knowledge available at the library, Mrs. Thomas says. Adults also have their questions.

"Most of our questions come over the telephone around dinner time, and seem to be stimulated by dinner table discussions," Mrs. Thomas said. "Most frequent questions deal with the population of and the distances between cities, the correct pronunciation of words, and the names of authors of certain books.

"The library is often called upon to act as a sort of information bureau, and we are always glad to furnish whatever information we can. We feel we can be of valuable service to residents of the community in just this way, and are anxious to encourage the use of the library and the assistance of its attendants in supplying the answers to puzzling questions, both of old and of young."

Commenting further on children's use of the library facilities, Mrs. Thomas stated that children as a rule ask intelligent questions when seeking information, and are able to use the library with considerable efficiency.

"In school times," she said, "we have such crowds of children here after school hours that we can't help each one individually to find books every time they come. We tell them the first couple of times, and after that they are usually able to help themselves.

Commission Aids Blind Weavers In Struggle With Machine Competition

An interesting example of the struggle which hand-made products face in competition with machine-made goods came to the attention of the Village Commission Monday night when representatives of the Michigan Employment Institute at Saginaw applied for permission to sell in Birmingham without a license fee rugs and mops made by blind weavers at the institute.

The free license was granted on move of Commissioner Lawrence Hulbert after a long discussion, in which E. S. Wessborg, superintendent of the institute, and George A. Smith, secretary of the institute commission, pointed out that the cost of producing the articles is so high as to be impractical without the co-operation of municipal governments in such matters as the license fee question.

The rugs, hand-made by blind persons who are taught the trade at the institute as a means whereby they may become self-supporting, are produced at a cost of $2.-10 each, 35 cents of which goes to the weaver, Mr. Wessborg said. They are sold to consumers at $3.50 each.

The institute, he said, together with its distributing agency, the Michigan Blind Products Sales Company, makes every possible attempt to keep down the cost of marketing the products. Otherwise, he claimed, the high cost of their production would forestall their distribution in competition with machine-made goods, and the blind weavers would not be supplied with enough orders to keep them self-supporting.

Mr. Smith claimed that no municipality in Michigan in which the institute has sought to sell its products has yet exacted a license fee.

Must Take His Chances

Mr. and Mrs. Scrappins find themselves on a balcony where they can overhear spooners' conversation below.

Mrs.—I think the young fellow wants to propose. We ought not to listen. Whistle to him.

Mr.—Why should I? Nobody whistled to warn me.—Travaso, Rome.

Merely A Suggestion

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder," murmured the sentimental youth.

"Oh, I don't know," remarked the matter-of-fact girl, "did you ever try presents?"

OBITUARY

Mrs. Florence St. Denis

Funeral services were held in Saginaw yesterday for Mrs. Florence St. Denis, 43 years old, sister of Dr. George R. Norton, and of Mrs. James Taylor, both of Birmingham, who died at 6:45 P. M. Sunday following an operation at Osteopathic Hospital, Highland Park.

Other survivors include the husband, Daniel St. Denis; one daughter, Mrs. Grant Perry; two sons, Donald St. Dennis and Benton St. Denis; the mother, Mrs. Ida Norton, Saginaw, and a brother, Dr. Joseph R. Norton, Farmington.

Mrs. St. Denis was a member of the Ames Methodist Episcopal Church of Saginaw. The body was returned to Saginaw Tuesday from the Kimball-Bailey Funeral Home.

Blue Goose Cuts Passenger Fares

A reduction of rates to a fare averaging 2¾ cents a mile has been put into operation on all Blue Goose lines of the Eastern Michigan Motorbus system, it was announced by bus officials yesterday.

Fares from Detroit to Birmingham have been reduced from 50 cents to 45 cents, and from Detroit to Pontiac from 75 cents to 65 cents.

A decrease of 15 percent on round trip tickets which can be bought only at Blue Goose offices has also been inaugurated.

Rates on the regular Star line between Detroit and Pontiac remain unchanged.

Worse Yet To Come

Mrs. Smith heard a man ascending the apartment stairs late at night and supposing it to be her husband opened the door and admonished a severe thrashing.

"Good heavens!" she cried at last, "you're not my husband, you're the tenant on the next floor, I'm awfully sorry."

"Yes, and you ought to be," replied her victim. "Now I'll have to go through it all again."—Tit-Bits.

Those Silly Expressions

2 MORE GIRLS GET SWIMMING AWARDS

The names of Phyllis Reaney and Barbara Fletcher were unintentionally omitted from the list published in last week's Eccentric of the names of the boys and girls who will receive American Red Cross swimming pins for their work at Barnum School swimming pool during the past few weeks. Both girls will receive beginners' pins.
