400 Toys For Needy Children Make Fire Hall Look Like Santa's Shop

If you should happen to wander into the headquarters of the Birmingham fire department in the Municipal Building any time between now and next Thursday evening, you might, without much wonder, feel that you had been transported to the original Toyland of St. Nicholas himself.

Stacked high on tables and around the walls in the truck room you will see scores of neatly wrapped and tagged bundles of every size and of the most intriguing shapes. From the corners of some you may see cautiously obtruding the head of a doll, the wheel of a kiddie car or the tip of a skate blade.

The packages represent the skill and diligence of Birmingham firemen—both full-time and volunteer—aided by members of the township fire department, who, in a Goodfellows Club project, have devoted their spare time for the past several weeks to a work which will bring gladness to the hearts of countless needy Birmingham children at Christmas time this year.

Some of the toys—50 sturdy and brightly painted new sleds, for instance—were made outright by the firemen themselves. The others are toys which had already been the scars of youthful and vigorous handling through at least one previous Christmas season, and which were turned over to the firemen for repair.

Perhaps an automobile needed a new rubber tire or the removal of a disastrous-looking dent from a rear fender. Perhaps a doll needed a new leg, a locomotive a new wheel, or a piano a new key or two.

But whatever the defect, it was thoroughly repaired and the toy restored by paint, varnish and mechanical skill to its original condition—"as good as new."

Nearly 400 toys in all were prepared by the firemen and are now ready for distribution. These include the new sleds and several scores of wooden toys on wheels which were also constructed entirely new.

The Goodfellows will distribute the toys either Thursday afternoon or evening to boys and girls in needy families appearing on a list which the club has prepared.

"We feel that we have enough toys to distribute to every child who would not otherwise get one," says Fire Chief Vernon Griffith who has supervised the project as chairman of the Goodfellows Club. "And the men have had as much enjoyment out of making them as the kids will in receiving them."
