SCREEN, STAGE ...AND STUDIO...

Busy days for Charlie Chaplin, these! Comedian left London week ago for Paris to be gone until February when he will return to England to begin work on Russian picture for which he wrote script. with Feodor Challispin as lead. Cast will also include Rita Boulten, English girl recently discovered by Chaplin.

From Paris Charlie goes to Switzerland for winter sports, then to Japan for personal appearances with "City Lights," produced under Then back to England.

Charlie's also working on script of film based on European trip, which he plans to make when he returns to Hollywood in fall.

Gotham Guffaws

Laugh and world laughs with you is present slogan of 42nd street, N. Y. C., with five laugh shows going strong and spreading cheer among theater-goers. Two are comedies, "Reunion In Vienna," at Beck, and "Counsellor at Law," at Plymouth with two- are farces, "Springtime for Henry" at Bijou, and "Louder Please" at Masque; one is musical show, "The Laugh Parade."

Newest of these is "Springtime for Henry" by Benn W. Levy, author of "Mrs. Moonlight." One laugh situation alone is said to have been timed at 75 seconds.

"Little Women"

Openings on Broadway include Marian Everett's dramatization of Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women," with Jessie Royce Landis as "Jo."

Same play can be seen in Detroit at Civic this week, under direction of Jessie Bonstelle, who secured dramatization rights from Alcott heirs for initial production several years ago. Julia Madison is cast as "Jo," Miss Bonstelle takes role of "Marmee," Thyra Rouland appears as "Aunt March" and Walter Sherwin as "Mr. March."

Chow for Jobless

Going to New York soon? Interested in new place to dine with celebs? Try Actors' Dinner Club in basement of Union Methodist Church in West 48th street. Idea is to give free dinners to jobless actors without forcing them to apply to charity.

Dining room is also open to paying patrons and many high ups of theater world dine there to help it keep along. Things arranged so that paying and free customers are treated alike. Those who can, buy book of tickets, those who can't are given tickets so that when tickets are collected, apparently everybody pays. Daniel Frohman, Katharine Cornell, Blanche Yurka, Dorothy Gish, Rollo Peters and others were among celebs to dine there in week club has been open.

Memorizin'

Here's how they do it. Stars and players seem to agree that learning dialogue for pictures is harder work than learning lines for stage where actors' movements can be learned at same time and associated with words and sentences. In pictures dialogue must be learned before actor reports on set.

Each player has his own way of learning lines. Clive Brooks likes to study at home and rehearse with family. Ruth Chatterton studies dialogue in secluded corner of garden and gives orders not to be disturbed. Paul Lukas studies in barber chair and rehearses at home, with wife taking parts of other actors.

Phillips Holmes drives up into mountains, parks car and practices parts all by his lonesome. Frank Lombard and William Powell, as Mr. and Mrs., help one another in home rehearsals.

Miriam Hopkins prefers to learn lines while seated on beach listening to roar of ocean. Eugene Pallette goes fishing and takes script along. Lilyan Tashman looks over next day's lines before retiring night before. In morning she goes over them again, then leaves for studio.

Xmas Shows

Two shows will open in Detroit on Christmas night. Walker Whiteside will re-open Lafayette with "Surf" by Frank Harvey, to remain until after New Year's holidays. Show is story of life in lighthouse in southern seas.

Billy Rose's "Crazy Quilt" with Fanny Brice, Phil Baker and Ted Healy will open for run of nine nights beginning Christmas at Cass. Show offers one matinee performance Saturday, with midnight performance New Year's Eve.
