Sound Experiment Not So Tuneful, Among Musicians

Of The Discerning Results, So Far, Of Learning To Play Another Instrument
The weird spectacle—but ah, far more weird sound—which discards any Baldwin High student who chooses to look in on the Baldwin band Monday afternoon between 2 and 2:30 p. m.—the spectacle regular members of the variety band playing on each of a very interesting nation-wide experiment, that of instrumental lessons over the radio.

Dr. J. E. Maddy, supervisor of instrumental music at the University of Michigan, director of the National High School Band and Orchestra camps at Interlochen, and head of the state education department's music section, is original author of the plan and conductor of the weekly program, which is broadcast by the University School of the Air River Station WJR, Detroit.
