THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME. Here's a dog for you, son. He's a thoroughbred and a fighter. He'll keep all the stray cats and dogs out of your back yard. OH MAN! How I'd like that old cat that's been hanging around the garage. LIKE GOOD MIXER. Villagers and the Village. By THE WANDERER.

Bloomfield Hills Village residents and taxpayers evidently are perfectly satisfied with the proposed $38,000 budget for 1931 for that community. William Story, village clerk, reports, "There were only a few persons who took the trouble to ask questions about the budget and when the matters they did not understand were explained to them they expressed appreciation and approval. Mr. Story told this Wanderer.

This Wanderer and his wife, while recent guests during an evening gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Strand, of Adams road, met for the first time Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Wandell and Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harris, both of Gleggery road, this village. To the question: "who is the Wanderer?" this member of that nomadic group explained that this Village and Village column in the contribution of several members of The Eccentric's staff; this Wanderer, to offer proof of that statement, suggested that the questioner observe this issue of the newspaper. Thus, folks, does your Village and Village column find its chatty, intimate way into your "home-town newspaper" each week.

Birmingham Exchanges, their wives and guests, are looking forward next Monday night to an interesting meeting when George A. Wandell, village manager, will deliver his inspirational lecture on "Abraham Lincoln." Mr. Wandell has gained considerable reputation for his research into the life and attainments of the Great Emancipator. The speaking will follow a dinner to be served at the Community House.

Revererations in the Commission Chamber of the Municipal Building are so frequent and uncontrolled the acoustics there are poor and it is difficult for a speaker to be heard from one end of the room to the other. Jim Parry, village manager, told the members of the commission and this Wanderer Monday night that he had contemplated hanging drape or stringing wires and otherwise experimenting to remedy the fault. One of the natural phenomena about the chamber, however, is that the acoustics in the room improve when the seats are all filled. Only on rare occasions, however, do more than four or five attend the sessions.

Birmingham may have a new bridge. This Wanderer learns, Commissioner Lawrence Hulbert Monday advocated the construction of such a span at some convenient point over the River Rouge in the village park and in a short talk to fellow-commissioners pointed out the fact that there are no bridges over the stream in the park south of Maple avenue. Not that this Wanderer means to be facetious—but turn to the comic page if you're interested in taxicabs. That's where the new taxicab ordinance—and a very excellent ordinance, the commission agrees—may be found. Louis Hascall, Glenn Roulter, Phil Williams, Harry Bissett, and
