TELLS STORY OF "DRY ICE"

Manufacturer's Agent Gives Explanation Of Product To Rotarians

The story of "dry ice," the most modern commercial method of utilizing the process of refrigeration, was told to Birmingham Rotarians here Monday noon by Leslie G. Estep, of Detroit, a representative of the company that markets the product in this area. Dry ice, explained Mr. Estep, is the result of releasing carbon dioxide while under pressure into a large enclosure at atmospheric pressure the released chemical taking the form of a solid, or ice, at 110 degrees below zero.

"At this very low temperature the ice has the same effect upon flesh as extreme heat, and will result in scalding," stated Mr. Estep. He showed a number of experiments with dry ice, revealing its ability to create pressure for explosive purposes, as well as a form of gas capable of putting out fire.

Mr. Estep was brought to Birmingham through the efforts of Dr. Fred W. Crawford, who is in charge of the program for the day.

WOMEN AUGMENT SYMPHONY FUND

Mrs. Lyle and Committee Will Raise $25,000 For Maintenance, From Music Lovers

At least $25,000 in promises and cash and notes will be raised in Birmingham and the Hills by women of the Symphony Orchestra Maintenance Fund Committee, during the next few weeks, under the direction of Mrs. Norman Lyle as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Henry Scripps Booth, Mrs. Richard Morgan, Mrs. Frank Werneken and Mrs. Joseph Page.

"As a metropolitan enterprise for suburban residence dwellers, as well as those living strictly within the city limits of Detroit, the Symphony Orchestra challenges the interest, sympathy, affection and support of every Birmingham and Hills person of even average means," Mrs. Lyle asserts.

I. B. Howard, local businessman: "If any plan such as the Soviet government seeks to put over in Russia can succeed, I believe it has the best opportunity in a country like Russia with its dense illiteracy and ignorance. Russia offers the most fertile soil for the planting of the seed of communism; China, I believe, ranks next to Russia."

Three Wise Men of Science

Here are perhaps three of the greatest living scientists, shown as they met at the California Institute of Technology recently to work on new theories of the universe. The men, and the works for which they are famous, are, left to right: Dr. Albert A. Michelson, Dr. Albert Einstein, for his theory of relativity and Dr. Robert A. Millikan, for discovering the cosmic ray and isolating the electron.

Rev. Aulenbach Discusses Necessity Of Establishing Emotional Balance

The establishment of an emotional balance in children is one of the most necessary duties of parents and educators, the Rev. W. H. Aulenbach, assistant pastor of Christ Church Cranbrook, told members of the Barnum Parent-Teachers' Association at their regular meeting last Thursday.

"Our concern in training the child," he declared, "is with the strivings below the child's behavior. Emotions are inseparable from instincts. Our emotions and instincts are our springs of action in our duty to bring to the child through the emotions so as to make it possible for him to pass on to the next without experiencing disillusionment.

Shouldn't Take Sides

"Quarrelling is the most human thing in the world. After it is all over, we wonder why there was a quarrel. After an analysis of the event peace and reconciliation should follow. Unfortunately, many mothers take sides in their children's quarrels. They should not do so because the child quite naturally gets an exaggerated idea of the quarrel. Too, it is a natural thing for us to make mistakes. Some mothers make punishment for their children's mistakes so severe that the child, rather than admit his errors, will try to hide them.

Children should be made to realize the more serious things in life, such as love and death," Mr. Aulenbach declared.

"The child has to become conscious of such a thing as death. When death happens in our own families we become disillusioned. We should realize that death is not an unnatural thing and children also should be taught to understand that death is natural.

Keep Own Troubles

"Children are born without fears, but after a while fears are created in the children by their parents. I read recently of a case of a child who had lost his

Villagers and the Village

By THE WANDERER

From many sources the Wanderer's department learns of a growing desire on the part of the people to consider with more friendliness the idea of changing Birmingham government from village to city. The basis for the desired change, it is reported, hinges upon a general belief that Birmingham taxpayers can save at least $100,000 annually by the change. The economy would be effected through the fact that a city becomes divorced from township activities, and thus saves the expense of contributing to township administration. Right now Birmingham pays over 40 per cent of the cost of township government, and gets little in return—as any township official will tell you.

Carl A. Strand, of Adams road, has proved a motor car manipulator. Among his various automobile possessions, he holds title to a business coupe, a quite popular make—one of those whose makers feel that everyone can afford to buy. He referred to this Wanderer last week, four of them touching the ground, the other attached to the rear. Under ordinary circumstances the car seems to work better, but the other attached to the rear. One day last week, however, Mr. Strand became master of the machine. For instance, the motor vehicle, while coming through Sherwood Forest, in the town of Detroit, Michigan, he suddenly struck a stone, and the car rolled to his left, in a vacant lot. An inspection showed that it was the pavement provided a good slide for the brake. The wheel he named where the wheel had been.

This Wanderer saw Charlie Shain last week driving his team of bays to the sleigh, with fur cap to keep his ears warm and his gloves, make warm his hands. What could be better than good old-fashioned sleighing? Back in the days of 25 years ago when Charlie Shain started owning his drug store, when he was a young boy, he died, having a fine sleigh and a tandem of driving ponies was the greatest thing about winter.

Quite unintentionally, one of the surest ways to be clapped into the hospital in Italy is, according to Professor Arthur Atton, of the Latin-American history department of the University of Michigan, to stall your motor car in front of the home of Benito Mussolini. Police are so wary of attempted assassinations, Prof. Atton says, that they arrest any boy because of suspicion anyone who is so unfortunate as to run out of gas in front of the Premier's residence.

COASTING ON HILL, BOY BADLY HURT

Stied Strikes Tree, Runner Piercez Southfield Youngster

A 14-year-old boy was severely injured Saturday when the sled on which he was coasting downhill at the Twelve Mile road and the River Rouge, struck a tree, the runner of the sled piercing the boy's leg above the knee, opening a wound 14 inches long.

The boy, Gordon McCleech, lives at 286 Sutherland avenue, Southfield Township and is a student in the Benny Acres School.
