Track Practice Begins In Earnest

Indoor track practice began in earnest this week under the direction of William Maywood, Senior session room director and now coach for the sport. The thinclads underwent a rigorous session Tuesday afternoon to limber themselves up and under Coach Maywood's direction they will hold daily practice sessions until start of the season in a few weeks. Mr. Maywood will also coach spring tennis.

Members of the varsity swimming team, kept out of the swimming pool by Board of Health vaccination orders, also took laps on the track under Coach Maywood's direction this week. They are keeping in physical trim despite their inability to swim. Only James O'Rourke and William DeLee of the entire squad were not vaccinated, having been so recently.

WHAT'S WRONG AND WHERE?

THERE ARE 13 MISTAKES IN THIS PICTURE

POSTAGE STAMPS MAKE HISTORY

If you really want to see a colorful pattern of American history without wandering through historical museums, gather together all the postage stamps issued by the Post Office Department in commemoration of outstanding national events. From the landing of Columbus to the Lindbergh flight, these stamps tell in chronological order our development from an unexplored tract of land to our modern industrial civilization.

It is impossible to list the variety and range of historical subjects to whose importance the Post Office Department has paid tribute. They include such events as the Louisiana purchase, the founding of Jamestown, the Revolution, the discovery and navigation of the Hudson River, the opening of the Panama Canal and the close of the World War. The figures of Pere Marquette, Molly Pitcher, Robert Livingston, George Rogers Clark, Thomas Edison and Colonel Lindbergh are among those in the pictorial array.

At present the stamps are issued as soon as possible after the occurrence of the event to be commemorated, but this is by no means true to the past. Columbus' voyage was embodied in a postage stamp design in 1893, and the Jamestown Series were issued in 1907. That we are still closing gaps in our historical stamp narrative is shown by a recent issue commemorating the first arrival of immigrants to the United States from Norway in 1895.

It's The Only Way

"What are you doing around here, Rastus—waiting for your chance to steal a chicken?"

"No, sah. De judge reformed me las' month, an' Ah is jest out testin' mahself."—Exchange.

Cash Off

"Mose," said the judge sternly, "you are found guilty of having stolen two chickens from Mr. Harrison's coop. The fine will be five dollars."

"Yassuh, judge," said Mose, putting $10 on the judge's desk. "Ah's giving you ten bucks which will pay me up to an' includin' next Satiday night."—B. & M. Magazine.

First, Second, Third

"I want to get my advertisement into the hands of every farmer in the county," a patent medicine spieler in a small town told the crowd around his stand preparatory to selling them his medicine at "a special advertising price."

"I'll tell ye a good way to do that," announced a farmer in the crowd. "Jest have it printed on the backs of mortgage blanks."—Montreal Star.

I'm Encouraged

"Scribbler is a genius, isn't he?"

"I guess so. His wife told me yesterday that he didn't know how to build the furnace fire."—Exchange.

Second Sight, Maybe

An Irish motor truck driver was charged with reckless driving in having stopped his truck so suddenly that a car behind smashed into him.

The judge asked him why he had not held out his hand. Pat indignantly answered: "If the poor fool couldn't see me truck, how in hiven's name could he see me hand?"—Optimist.

The Quick And The Dead

A boy wishing to brush up on his history approached a group of veterans who were re-fighting the Civil War and timidly asked one: "Mister, were you in the battle of Bull Run?"

"Yes, son, I was there," replied the veteran.

"Well, did you run?" asked the boy.

"Son, those that didn't run are still there," was the veteran's reply.—Boston Transcript.
