PRESENT difficulties are as nothing when compared to the hardships of 1621, when the Pilgrims first instituted the day of Thanksgiving. For despite the obstacles of the year just past, there is much for which to be thankful.

Hardships have always been stepping stones to greater achievement, and in these days of the passing depression we witness new values. Lower prices, along with a genuine spirit of friendly service, are evidenced in the businesses of Birmingham which are brought to your attention on this page, offering their services toward making your Holiday a happy one.
