Packed Auditorium Listens to Christian Science Lecturer

3 HUNTERS FINED FOR TRESPASSING

Hunting on private property in Bloomfield Hills cost three hunters $10 each when they were arrested early Monday morning and haled before Judge Floyd S. Back on charges of trespassing.

The Harvest Field Described

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 118), Mrs. Eddy described the field of human consciousness in three degrees of translation, the first being "Depravity," the second, "If he believes disappearing," and the third, "Understanding."

The Fan Defined: A Precision Instrument

Let us consider that the fan, defined in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 586) as "separator of false from truth," or we might say, that which gives practice to theory—is the great precision implement of the great precision science, the Science of Christianity. Let us describe this instrument as spirituality—breathing fan the prongs of which are comprised in wisdom, purity, spiritual understanding, sympathy, love, health, and holiness.

The Transitional Qualities

Whatever is a state of consciousness is also a stage of consciousness. The excellent qualities of morality listed in the scientific translation of mortal mind are to be considered as attributes of Christ appearing. They are the transitional qualities, so termed by Mrs. Eddy. They are not from the carnal mind; they cannot be chaff. These second-degree qualities present true spiritual ideas, and they produce the improved life of the mortal state.

Wisdom will enable one to judge righteous judgment, based upon a marshaling of all the facts obtainable. The wise man will deal compassionately with his fellow man, remembering pityingly his afflictions and temptations, his short comings and long goings. He will be spiritually radical at all times, yet humanly kind and considerate.

Now, from John the Baptist to Jesus the Christ, the moral status of disappearing, nevertheless moral effect their complete disappearance, with the spiritual understanding of reality, John the Baptist exemplified the qualities of the second degree in such measure that Jesus himself said, "I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance; but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear; he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire. John was not adequately equipped with those spiritually revealed qualities, possessions which made Jesus the Saviour of the world, and today enables his true followers to do the works he did, and to save the world.

A Sift in Cantraries

In considering the divinely mental qualities of reality, we may follow the metaphysical method used by Mrs. Eddy, setting the fact and the falsehood over against each other in contrasting sets of terms. Thus we may contrast wisdom with evil belief; purity with passion and appetite; and deistic spiritual understanding, and spiritual power which accompanies it, with depraved self-justification, and love with fear, sin, hatred, envy, revenge, heart hand holiness, sickness, disease, and death. We may profitably enter upon a study in these contraries and thus, in our own lives and in the service of our fellows, learn more expertly to wield the fan in the harvest of humanity.

Wisdom

In the book of Proverbs these words occur: "For the Lord giveth wisdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding." Wisdom, then, is the emanation of the divine Mind, God. It is that quality in man, ever present and available. Wisdom means clarity versus the confusion and deception of false beliefs. The effect of wisdom upon human consciousness is to orientate, to cause the human mind to gain and maintain equilibrium, a sense of values, position towards all aspects of human life.

The wise man will deal compassionately with his fellow man, remembering pityingly his afflictions and temptations, his short comings and long goings. He will be spiritually radical at all times, yet humanly kind and considerate. He will remember that Jesus went with those that mourned, and not the fate of Jerusalem in its unrepentance. The wise man will extend his points towards the afflictions of men, state, and business, and will be undismayed when evil beliefs seem to be in the ascendancy. He will view without confusion the efforts and seeming achievements of evil men and things, holding himself above the unreal and ready to give it reality. His sense of values will foresee the harvest, the bundling of the tares, the winnowing on the floor, the separating of the chaff and the wheat, and the blinding away of the chaff. In the midst of the confusion of evil beliefs he will stand firm and assured. "What is the chaff to the wheat?" Nothing ever goes wrong in fact. The wise man's feet may seem to be amongst the tares of evil beliefs, but his thoughts are always above the confusion. He keeps it there and calmly awaits the destruction of error. He is concerned only with the harvest, not over the seeming amalgamation of the contraries. Undismayed by calamities, sin, disease, disasters, and worse conditions in business, in state, in church organization, he is confident of himself, his sympathy and compassion by correct moves tending to relieve, to heal, and to save. Lack of position is a curse of the human race, Peo-
