WE HEARD IT SAID BY H. T. Ellsbery, of Adams road, former village president, "I believe that the present tax situation will bring more of our citizens to see the value of Birmingham as a saving thousands of dollars by becoming a city. Why should we spend the extra money to maintain the extra unit of government, when we get nothing in return for the expense?"

WOMEN WHO PLAY FAIR . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Prothero of Hanna street had as their guests last week, Mrs. Prothero's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Pollard, and her niece, Miss Janet Williams, all of Winnipeg, Williams, who had summered last week at Mrs. Pollard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pro-

"... must remember to pay our bills!"

We quarreled that morning and about the silliest thing! Not so silly either, since it meant our success.

I was just marking the calendar as a reminder when in walked Bob.

"What are you doing, honey?"

I muttered, "Oh, bills . . . must remember to pay them!"

"What's the hurry? Let 'em go for a while. What's the good of credit if you don't string it out a bit?"

"Bob! You should be ashamed of yourself!" After a few more digs, I got my Irish up and told him what was that about this "bill" business.

"Don't you realize that our creditors have to eat, too? If everybody put off paying bills, we'd all soon cease to have doctors or grocers or stores or anyone who is good enough to give credit. How would you feel if the company 'put off' paying your salary for three months?"

"Not so good!"

"And another thing! Remember when I was in the hospital? It was credit that pulled us through, wasn't it? Now that we're on our feet again, it's only fair that we play square and pay promptly!"

I stopped for breath and Bob got his chance.

"Aw, I know all kinds of people who let their bills slide . . ."

"I know the ones you mean! But, Bob, people talk about them! Actually, they're being supported by their creditors. Why, the poorest family that pays their bills every month is better than they are."

"You win, you win!" said Bob, holding up his hands. I smiled, but couldn't help adding, "You'll thank your lucky stars some day for having me as your wife!"

You, too, can be free of needless worry over bills. Form the habit of paying promptly, and your credit will always be a pleasure to use.
