R. H. BALDWIN RITES HELD

Rubber Magnate Succumbs After Long Illness At Wing Lake Home

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon for Russell H. Baldwin, 47 years old, organizer and former president of the Baldwin Rubber Company of Pontiac, who died late Wednesday of last week at his home on Wing Lake.

Death was caused by a lingering illness which forced him to retire from active business two years ago.

Born in Kalamazoo on May 5, 1884, the son of Orrin R. Baldwin, he began his business career as a road salesman for Detroit firms, following which he became successively connected with the Timken Bearing Company and the Stewart-Warner Company.

Later he joined the staff of the General Motors Corporation at Flint where he organized the General Motors speedometer department. His next connection was with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in Akron, O., where he remained until 1924 when he organized the rubber company in Pontiac which bears his name.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Leah M. Baldwin; the mother, Mrs. Alice H. Baldwin of Detroit; two daughters, Leah B. and Barbara J., both at home, and one brother, George O. Baldwin of Detroit.

He was a member of the Detroit Athletic Club and of the Orchard Lake Country Club.

The funeral was held from the home at 2 P. M. Saturday. Rev. S. S. Marquis, rector of Christ Church Cranbrook, officiating. The body was cremated at White Chapel Memorial Park.

THEATER STAYS OPEN

Dr. Roosevelt said that although the Village Health Board has the authority to close the local motion picture theater, no action along his line would be taken unless conditions become more serious than at present.

"The theater is a private enterprise where attendance is not compulsory as in the schools," he said. "My personal opinion is that parents would be unwilling to allow their children to mingle with large crowds in the theater, but I have no intention of taking any formal action in this regard."

Meanwhile, all teachers in the public schools are being asked to report daily for fall morning and afternoon periods, according to Superintendent Clarence Vliet. When they are being asked to outline their teaching programs for the year, and to attend group discussions led by the heads of various departments.

In this way, Mr. Vliet said, it is hoped the teaching program will be speeded up when the schools do re-open, and some of the lost time regained. He declined to say whether any attempt would be made to add the lost days to the program later in the year, declaring this question was for the Board of Education to determine.

ROOSEVELT'S FORESTRY PROGRAM

Roosevelt, who chopped down trees, he once said referring to his forestry program. "I am the Roosevelt who plants them."

His name is his greatest asset, and by virtue of it Tammany Hall hopes to push him into the White House. His vacillating temperament makes it possible for Roosevelt to be on good terms with Tammany despite his warfare against surly conditions in the Wigwam.

Puts Up Secret Combat

A confirmed dry until the spring of 1930, he then embraced the anti-prohibition program, believing that a dry would have little chance of winning the Democratic nomination. At the same time, however, he preserved his popularity with arid southern Democrats by rushing party telegrams to their leaders, urging them to wage battle with the Rasbo-Smith program.

When nominated as Cox's running mate in the 1920 election, Roosevelt ruined his own campaign by lack of restraint and discretion. In the midst of a political fight, he became overly intense and impetuous. One of his devices—copied from T. R.—is to omit in oral delivery the more outspoken portions of speeches that are contained in advanced copies, thus relieving himself of personal responsibility but at the same time succeeding in getting his ideas before the public. As a result newspaper correspondents no longer trust him.

He has a commendable record as a governor, although his program of action is characterized by the establishment of opportune political issues rather than the settlement of problems.

One of Roosevelt's greatest strengths is his sympathy, apparently genuine, for the farmers. His pulling power for the agricultural vote is as strong now as it was when, a few years after his graduation from Harvard, he became the first successful Democratic candidate for Dutchess County district assemblyman in 10 years.

VEGETABLES IN YOUR GARDEN

Vegetables in your garden you can't get rid of! Fruit in your orchards you don't know what to do with?

Then bring them to the Community House where they will be earned and distributed to the needy this winter by welfare workers. Mrs. Hope Hagren, executive secretary of the Community House, said yesterday that women's organizations in the various churches have agreed to aid in the canning, and urged over-stocked farmers and gardeners to make this worthy use of their surplus produce.

The largest existing bags are fish killers, which sometimes reach a length of four inches.

amounts to approximately 40 percent of the whole, or about $12,000 for the section between Lincoln and Clawson roads which is the only portion of the project under consideration for this fall.

The village also sees hope, Mr. Pardy said, of being able to finance the paving of Eton road between Villa and Webster streets, another project which had presented difficulties for the treasury, in view of the fact that municipalities whose tax delinquency is more than 25 percent are prohibited by state law from levying further special assessments.

Bids on the paving were opened Friday, Bartling and Dull of Pontiac being low with an estimate of $7,554.

Cranbrook To Open

Cranbrook School for Boys which was originally scheduled to open for the fall term last Monday, deferred the date one week immediately after the Detroit schools had been ordered closed.
