

JUNIOR HI TENNIS GAMES CHANGED

Congestion Brings Shift Of Schedule From Spring To Fall

Junior high tennis has been transferred from spring to fall because of the congestion of the junior and senior high schedules, according to Coach E. T. Engel of the Junior High School. Only four courts being available for the eight different school tennis teams, and it being impossible to change the senior high schedule because it is a part of the S. E. A. League program, it was found necessary to shift the junior high schedule to the fall, Mr. Engel explained.

With the re-opening of school yesterday, practices were arranged in preparation of the coming tennis tournaments, the first to take place Thursday, Oct. 1.

The following schedule has been arranged by the junior high coaches and principals. All games will be played at the Barnum courts.

Oct. 1, Baldwin vs. Barnum; Oct. 5, Adams vs. Barnum; Oct. 8, Barnum vs. Baldwin; Oct. 15, Barnum vs. Adams; Oct. 19, Baldwin vs. Adams.

Barnum won first place in tennis last year and Adams finished second.

Opening of the bank was the result of representations made by Royal Oak business men, merchants and civic leaders to Frank J. Maurice, prominent Guardian executive, also a Birmingham man, asking that the institution be established.

Mr. Gardner, who is vice-president of the Highland Park State Bank, executive vice-president of the Highland Park Trust Company, and a director of the Guardian Bank of Dearborn, is a past president of the Detroit Chapter of the American Institute of Bankers and last June was elected to the National Executive Council of that association.

Pictures, Reports Describe Activities of Y.M.C.A. Camp

Pictorial and oral descriptions of the activities at the Oakland County Y. M. C. A. summer camp were given Tuesday night in the Birmingham Community House at a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. board.

It began with reveille, and carried the boys through their regular periods of recreation, study, discussions, mess times and handicraft classes.

The report of the operation committee, composed of M. R. Cole, Ferndale, chairman; E. W. Sashole, Birmingham; Ivan Long, Pontiac; T. M. Faddis, Birmingham; and Robert D. Lynd, secretary of the Birmingham Y. M. C. A., showed that 448 camp periods were filled during the six weeks the camp was in session.

Of these, 224, or exactly 50 percent, were taken by Birmingham campers who accounted for 97 of the periods. Royal Oak for 38 and outlying districts for 29.

The staff of supervisors and junior leaders averaged 25 throughout the season. The enrollment was an increase of 12 percent over that of last year.

Talents and energies of the campers were divided into more than a score of channels, all supervised by the adult experts. An average of 20 boys in each period participated in bird study, tagging birds and sending reports to the government to aid in the study of migration.

Nature Study Popular
The bark, natural selection and successful mounting of birds, with 40 different species and trees were studied by from 10 to 15 boys of each session. Experiments of butterfly native to the site was caught and mounted, the mounting filling 10 to 15 minutes. The campers made catching nets and stretched and mounted their specimens.

Boys interested in arts and crafts made a variety of leather and metal articles, constructed crystal radio sets, modelled airplanes, made bows and arrows, pounded brass and copper into trays, paper knives and other articles, and practiced basketry and weaving.

Swimming Emphasized
Every boy in camp was given the opportunity and urged to learn to swim, and Red Cross awards were given for proficiency. Nineteen boys passed the life saving test, 31 passed the canoeing test, 44 the beginner's swimming test, 32 received sailing instruction and 14 passed the Boy Scout merit badge test in swimming. No boy left camp unable to swim at least a few yards, the report claimed.

Singing under the leadership of Eddie Edwards of Birmingham was an important phase of camp life. Numerous hikes to AuSable River and other nearby points were made, and during the last period the long term campers camped a week at Milo on the AuSable.

Social, group games, horse-ship pitching, "goody" golf, track games, treasure hunts, football, volleyball and a variety of other games furnished the sports program. Newspaper work, photography and first aid were some of the other projects offered.

Branch Library Established
A branch of the state library was established in camp with a large number of books available at all times. During the third period a large class in fishing and the habits of fish was held.

The health of the campers was one of the primary considerations of the camp organization. Health conditions were supervised constantly by the camp physician and camp nurse, and only two cases of a contagious character appeared during the six weeks. Mena and diet were supervised by the nurse. Boys under weight were given a lunch in the middle of the morning and put in the hospital tent for added rest in the afternoon.

Foreign Delegates Entertained
The camp contributed to the development of international good will and friendship by entertaining two delegates from the Y. M. C. A. World Conference at Toronto. Arwed Elmer Klose from Poland and Joseph Ambros from Czechoslovakia spent more than a week in the camp talking and visiting with the boys and leaders.

Daily discussion groups, Sunday assemblies, tent devotionals and personal interviews combined to give more emphasis to religious education than in previous years.

Besides her work at the school, Miss Bradbeck spends much of her time in missionary visits to different homes in the district. Miss Bradbeck taught four years in American high schools before going to China.

Perry A. Vaughan, Bloomfield Township supervisor, says that he has been informed by Raymond H. Berry, prominent Detroit tax attorney, that it is legal to pay tax bills item by item, providing the treasurer is requested to make a notation as to which item each payment is to apply.

The practice had been followed to some extent in the township before, Mr. Vaughan said, although no opinion as to its legality had ever been broached.

Copper was used by the Greeks about 3000 B. C. and it was used in western or northern Europe until 1,000 years later. Valued at f. o. b. factory prices, soap shipped or delivered in 1929 by U. S. manufacturers amounted to $258,815,408.
