MOORING MAST TO WALK AKRON IN AND OUT OF DOCK

This mobile mooring mast, electrically operated, will be used to take the giant U. S. S. Akron in and out of her dock at Akron, when she is ready for her maiden flight. Use of such a mast greatly facilitates handling of large airships and lessens danger of winds catching the dirigibles.

50 Break Fish Laws In County In July

In Oakland County a total number of 50 convictions resulting from violations of Michigan conservation laws were made from July 1 to July 31, and a total of $437 in fines were assessed, according to reports of the Department of Conservation.

The convicted are taking undervalued fish numbered 31. They paid $226 in fines. Seven non-residents were convicted of fishing without a license, and their fines totaled $87. Two persons were convicted of illegal possession of fish and each was fined $12.

A fine of $20 was assessed another person for taking more than the limited number of fish, $7 was paid for illegal possession of bluegill minnows, and $7 for possession of bluegills for bait. Fines of $7 each were assessed for fishing in the closed season, and for violation of pollution laws.

(Continued from Page 1, Part 2) Venerate followers of the habit. Not only does the English motorist stop regularly in the middle of the afternoon for tea, either at a tearoom or by the roadside from a vacuum bottle, but tea and biscuits are served in all the offices in the afternoon and we observed workmen clad in mason's garb stop in the middle of work in the aged atmosphere of the Tower of London and pour tea out of a bottle into their cups; and the relief motorist or conductor boarding a street car invariably carries his bottle of tea as well as his lunch, for without it he would certainly go mad.

The anti-Russian influence is seen everywhere in England. Dealers in jam products advertise that "this jam absolutely does not contain any Russian fruit," and a furniture dealer will swear that "this furniture does not contain any Russian material nor did Russian workmanship enter into it."

Also an intense British commercial patriotism is observed in the sale of almost every type of product. Objects are everywhere sold as "British and Best," and in every grocery store you are confronted with "Bay Empire Fruit" signs, Australian, Canadian, and New Zealand apples, English strawberries, South African oranges, Ceylon tea, Indian spices, Canadian cereals—the list is long. And commercial slogans in the same key have been everywhere adopted—"British to the core" (for apples); "British to the teeth" (for a popular toothpaste); "As Brits as the Flag" (for a popular brand of tires). In the advertising of this latter and a number of others the British merchant does something that is not permitted in the United States—he uses the national flag as a part of his advertising.

from London through Newcastle to Edinburgh and many other lines ply out of all important cities. A feature of these services is the operation, particularly in the south, of double-deck buses in the country. These are very popular (and justify so) for trips between cities, as they give a view not otherwise obtained.

The Eccentric endeavors to reflect the best phases of the community it serves. But when it is necessary to publish unpleasant facts that others bring upon themselves it does so in as constructive and helpful a manner as possible. We seek to present truthful, helpful journalism, aimed

A Newcomer to Kipke's Football Team

A MAN who had football ability far beyond that which his weight would indicate is Harry P. Stinespring, of Chicago, midwest quarterback of the Freshman team last fall. Harry came to Michigan after playing halfback on the 1929 state championship "Ciel" Sulturs High team in 1929, and now the scales at only 140 pounds. He is five feet six inches tall and is 18 years old.

Stinespring played a bang-up game at quarterback last fall, his first season at the position. He showed speed, a nice change of pace, and while he can toss forward passes, proved that he is a dangerous receiver. In the coming campaign his weight may place him at a disadvantage, but he is about certain to see service.

The Chicagoan acquired the nickname "H" in high school and it has clung to him since. Under it he played one season of football in high school, three seasons of basketball, all both guard and forward in the latter sport.

Stinespring is completing his literary requirements at Michigan and plans to enter the law school.
