Point Heir to Huge Fortune Continues Tending Flowers, Refusing to Become Excited

Caretaker Observes Other Folk Are More Concerned Over His $28,000,000 Inheritance

George Slaughter smiles at the prospect of sharing an estimated fortune of $28,000,000 in Texas the next day, at a view of London and Paris—when he was 17.

By ROY BUCKINGHAM
SANTA ROSA, Cal., August 15.—A caretaker in a Santa Rosa park one day said a joint heir to an estate estimated at $28,000,000 in Texas the next day, George Slaughter, 17, is still tending flowers, keeping the walks clean and pumping into the park every day.

"Shucks, I'm not excited," the general caretaker remarked. "Other folks are a lot more set up about my good fortune than I am."
"It's not a hand to count my chickens before they are hatched," Slaughter said, as he paused in his work. "There probably is a big estate and I've been told it's pretty definite that I'll get a big slice of it, but shucks, what's the use of building hopes on something you haven't seen? I'm not going to spend that money before I've got it." But Martha Plehn, 17-year-old granddaughter, isn't old enough to have much philosophy of this sort. Instead, she has a trip to Paris and London, a fashionable school and the thrills of the sort, including a visit to her kitchen transformed into a palace. Already she is planning trips and parties, and she refuses to believe these might be "lip lip"—even in vast estates.

The millionaire has brought his riches to Slaughter than carities of his own. "Within a few days," the news of Slaughter's good fortune had been carried in newspapers, the delicate communications carried from Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Nevada, and corner of California they came—and continue to flood the state. Slaughter lives in the north of his four-room cottage at 46 West Third street.

Although he was a first among many, Slaughter is now plainly bored. At least one-half of the letter content of his marriage, Slaughter being a widow. Some women plead with him, others for to center his future life.

"No More Women"
But Slaughter, uncertain about many details of his future life, has made up his mind on the marriage question.
"I've been single for the last 12 years, and I guess I can get along that way for a few years more," he says. "No more women for me."
Out of the mass of correspondents, Slaughter has received only one message, one appeal, one offer of work in his garden for my meals.

With steps now under way to remove the dust of Slaughter's past, the great uncle, John B. Slaughter, in Morris County, Texas, it is expected that distribution of the estate may be effected within a few days.
Delayed with telegrams, air mail and special delivery letters, Slaughter is weary already of reading proposals, advice, applications for work and heart-breaking pleas of the needy from all parts of the United States.
Women, scores of them, have suddenly determined that Slaughter needs a "nice, loving wife and companion"—one who could make his happy spending a part of the great wealth which he is expected soon to receive.
An explorer wants him to finance an expedition into the dark jungles of South Africa.

Warren Sherman, an Oregon man wants the newly rich laborer against "happier" to become a member of the private secretary for "only $8,000 a year."
And so, far into the night, until Slaughter has a headache.
"I'm amazed. I can't really believe through several of my relatives and my attorney, that it's true and that I'll probably have my hands on a share of the estate before Christmas." Slaughter says. "I'm afraid I am too old, now, to really enjoy the

Does Your Present Printer Do All This? and Not Charge You Extra for It? . . .

Every buyer of printing of The Birmingham Eccentric is invited to make use of a special department which will assist in the layout and writing of copy; be it for letterhead, office form or direct-by-mail advertising, and there is no extra charge for this extra service.
What is the best kind of type to use for your particular business? What nature of set-up will most effectively convey your business personality? Which is the right form to use? Is my present printing satisfactory? These questions are quickly answered within this organization.
Are you planning any direct mail advertising? How will you EXPRESS THE IDEA? Words, words, but how to use them most effectively? That is another service that we offer as printers. We will PLAN AND WRITE a complete campaign for you.
If in the future you may wish to enjoy the convenience of a COMPLETE printing service, phone the largest combined printing and publishing plant in Oakland county for a representative to call upon you.
FRANKLIN
Miss Doris Faxon, the owner of Miss Florence Robinson's Birmingham cottage on Hubbard Lakeland, has taken the last quarterly conference of the Franklin M. Church, which takes place Friday evening at the church with the pastor, superintendent in charge.
The annual election of officers will be the principal item of business at the meeting of the Franklin Ladies Aid Society to be held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clayton Curran. Dinner will be served at 5 P. M.
Miss Wilma Webb has the last week of her cousin, Mrs. Frank Renter at 10101.
Henry Clemens, who reported to be recovering after a line of several weeks.
The Messrs. Milburn and Mrs. Lottie Wood were guests of friends at Potomac the latter part of last week.
MANAGERS WILL NAME TWO ALL-STAR TEAMS
The Eccentric has asked the managers of each of the two divisions of the B. C. A. to select a ball league to present his selections for an all-star team of players during the season in his league. The players receiving the highest number of votes for each position will be listed in the final all-star selections which will be published in next week's Eccentric.
The managers' individual selections must be in the office of The Eccentric by next Saturday.
GOOD PRINTING can be obtained quickly and economically by requesting an obliging printer's representative to call upon your office to give you attention.
