Football officials had a great deal of difficulty with that dog who didn't belong on the field of play after all. He bounced around amidst the players, romping madly after the ball-carriers on their brief sprints...

The dog was "Commander," formerly the property of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Houma, of Easley avenue. He became a household pet...

Arrival of a second bizarre bird at the home of Lee A. White, of Brookside drive, has made it clear that Mr. White bids fair to become an authority on birds and similar life.

While in Germany in 1930, Mr. White made the acquaintance of the leading song-breeder of the Harz Mountain region, and upon his return permitted the breeder to use his name as a reference in American advertising.

The second visitor to the household came last week. He is an "entirely white" so called by the breeder, and is noted for his unusual whistling qualities.

Roasting chickens, round and sirloin steak, pot roast of beef, standing rib roast of beef, pork loin, center cut pork chops, fresh ham, select oysters.
