EPISCOPALIAN CONCLAVE ENDS

Pageant, Address By Bishop Page Climax Cranbrook Conference

As a climax to the summer conference of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, in progress at Cranbrook all last week, a pageant was presented by conference attendees Friday night, followed by a brief inspirational address by Rt. Rev. Norman Page, bishop of Michigan, and one of the conference leaders. Previous to the pageant prizes were awarded to the young people who distinguished themselves in the work of the conference.

Given in the Greek amphitheater at Cranbrook Estate, the pageant unfolded before a setting of King Arthur's court, and was based on the legend of the search for the Holy Grail.

Bishop Page, who addressed the group in Christ Church Cranbrook following the outdoor program, spoke on "Calling upon God for Help."

"If you really want to know what life is," he said, "or how to love, or how to solve whatever your problem may be at the time, call upon Him."

"Christianity is not a series of complications of creed or interpretations of the Bible, but a very simple thing. Loyalty to God and to your fellow men is all that Christianity is."

The conference ended Saturday morning when the final classes were held for the 200 clergy and lay delegates, representing Episcopal churches throughout Michigan. Luncheon at noon concluded the program.

SUIT WILL TEST SALARY ADVANCE

Bloomfield Township Asked To Explain Payment To Board Of Review Member

A law suit to test whether townships have the right to pay their employees in advance of salaries performed is scheduled for a hearing in Judge Arthur J. Tugney's court at 10 A. M. today.

The plaintiff is the Chalmers Metal Weather Strip Company of Detroit, which recently was awarded a judgment against SGM, a member of Bloomfield Township's Board of Review.

The company attempted to arrange with Mr. Hersey's board of review salary in payment of the judgment, but was informed that Mr. Hersey had advanced $100 on June 14 and that on June 23, the day the garnishment was issued, nothing was owing to Mr. Hersey from the township.

The Board of Review did not meet in public session until June 13, although it had preliminary meetings the week before, and the Township Board did not vote on the salaries to be paid Board of Review members until June 16, when the two members were voted $150 each.

The company then brought suit, making Bloomfield Township's garnishee defendant and asking township officials to show their authority for advancing salary money to employees before June 13.

At a preliminary hearing last Thursday, David E. Anderson, township treasurer, admitted that Mr. Hersey had been paid the $100 on June 11, but said the payment was made by voucher, signed by supervisors Perry Vaughey and James V. Bayley, clerk. He said he believed the practice was common.

Both Mr. Vaughey and Mr. Bayley have been summoned to testify at the continued hearing this morning in answer to the court's order to show cause why the $100 was paid in advance, and why it is not still subject to garnishment by the plaintiff.

Fire Visits House 2nd Time In Year

The second fire of the year at the home of Edward L. Bryant, 290 Aspen road, early Saturday morning resulted in the burning of a suit of clothes and damage to other articles of clothing in a closet on the second floor. Firemen said the damage was caused by five-year-old Edward Bryant, Jr., who had started a golf bag with matches. He found it in a closet in the closet.

Damage of $1,500 was caused in the Bryant home in a fire last February originating from defective wiring.

Harpster To Run For Probate Judge
 Henry W. Harpster, assistant Municipal Court justice for eight years, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for probate judge in the September primary. He has had experience on the Municipal Court bench. Judge Harpster practiced law for 10 years, including four years in the county prosecuting attorney's office.

Sam Patterson, Pontiac attorney, will oppose Judge Harpster for the probate judgeship of the Democratic ticket.

Perry A. Vaughan, Bloomfield Township supervisor, would like to take this opportunity to thank the many clubs and organizations in Birmingham which co-operated with the township last winter and spring in caring for indigent families of the community. I haven't figured out exactly the value of their aid and support, but I know it saved the county and township a lot of money, and it was for Birmingham the enjoyment of being the most co-operative community in Oakland County.

40 BOYS ENROLL IN PLAY SCHOOL

First of Annual Summer Terms Planned for Youth Opened At Cranbrook

Approximately 40 boys between the ages of six and 13 had enrolled up to yesterday in the first annual Cranbrook Summer Play School, which opened Tuesday to continue to Aug. 14, it was announced by George F. Nickerson, the director. A still larger enrollment is expected before the end of this week, he said.

The boys attending the school have been divided into three groups, according to age and physical ability. Classes meet from 9 A. M. to 12 Noon every day except Saturday, with one hour each morning devoted to wood-work, one to various games and one to swimming. Occasional visits will be made to the Institute of Science, Academy of Arts and other facilities offered by Cranbrook Foundation.

"The purpose of the school is to provide a place for recreation under proper supervision and coaching in swimming, baseball, track sports, tennis, canoeing and other outdoor sports.

Merits will be awarded to boys in each of the three divisions who merit themselves with distinction in their work and play. A track meet and water carnival will bring the term to a close.

PUBLIC URGED TO CUT WEEDS

Village Sounds Plea To Property Owners To Clean Up Vacant Lots

A plea to individual property owners in Birmingham to attend to cutting the weeds on their vacant lots had been issued today by the Commission and village manager following a protest against conditions in some parts of the village, directed to the Commission at its meeting Tuesday night.

"Difficulty of collecting the weed-cutting fee from property owners as a special assessment has caused the Commission to omit this item from the 1932 budget," explained Manager James W. Barry, "and although the township lends its welfare labor to the village for odd jobs, few of the men on the ward have let know how to handle a scythe."

"As a result, the most satisfactory method for having weeds removed is for individual property owners to hire the work done, and this the village strongly urges them to do."

The protest Monday was entered by Fred S. Ross, 504 Willis street, who said it appeared the village was "slipping backward" in neglecting the weed-cutting activities, and declared he intended to take it upon himself to serve as a committee of one to persuade certain property owners in his neighborhood to clean up their lots.

Village President Harry Allen admitted the "slipping backward" implication, but pointed out that the mounting delinquency in village taxes accounts for the fact that the regular appropriation for weed-cutting was not included in this year's budget.

In reply to a suggestion from Mr. Ross that Birmingham's "overworked firemen" be assigned the duty of burning weeds, Mr. Barry said that about 80 vacant lots have already been taken care of by that method this spring. Most of the lots were burned off by request, he said.

The village is still attending to the cutting of weeds in the high ways between curbs and sidewalks, he added, and any other places where they constitute a danger.

June Fire Loss Reduced To $20

Monthly Property Damage Near New Low Record; Only 5 Alarms Sounded

Fire loss in Birmingham neared a record low in June, when only $20 damage was done to buildings and none to contents, according to the monthly report of Fire Chief Vernon Griffith, issued yesterday.

Only five alarms were returned in firing the month. Property endangered by the fires was valued at $30,000.

Firemen spent 1 hour and 28 minutes in actual fire fighting, traveling 7.9 miles in trucks and from the alarms. Only 34 feet of ladder were raised, and 65 gallons of water pumped from the booster pumps.
