

I have never been able to figure life as anything but a violation of some as get-into-the-world state of perpetual thought, projected into this world of earthly conflict, for the sole purpose of glorifying its Maker.

THIS and THAT

By C. R. A.

Did you know that Jimmy Walker, New York's mayor, is a professional writer of songs? That he is the author of that December ad in the "New York Times" which says he is a pianist of agility and adeptness. Some day in the hope that this six-year-old kid will stop being a piano major and find his greater interest, "The Elegy of New York."

There are no less than seven million radios in the United States and Canada, and 1,000,000 in Germany. A funny paragraph in Life suggests that the Germans must find it difficult to keep their radios at the tops to us more of their own creation to which I am inclined to reply that the froth of some queer mugs is beginning to bother us Americans.

It must be plain to even the most stolid reader long before this page is read that the fault for waste and extravagance in public affairs lies not to be laid at the door of any individual or any single party or administration.

In fact, it may be truthfully said that we have no waste party in the strict sense of the word.

Instead we form parties divided by fundamental differences of opinion regarding principles of government and economy, and new groups of voters are being gathered around each of them.

Each group contains a proportionate number of radicals and conservatives; each its capitalists and its workingmen; each its financial leaders; each its well educated and less well educated. Each group is bidding against the other for the lucrative job of administering government for a nation or a state or a municipality where resources are rich and circumstances easily obtained.

On the fringe of this play of gang against gang, we observe the political parties, actions, blocs and organizations with ideas to peddle and votes to trade. Thus we frequently find some of the intended forces of democracy or conservatism in the game in power.

Fools do not profit even from foolishness.

Last fall 30,000,000 people paid admissions to football games. Quite fitting, could you say, that the stadium seats are depressions in the earth?

Less than a generation ago the automobile was also considered to be a menace to the safety of persons driving about in horse-drawn vehicles. Then we observe the same sort of reaction to the social change that comes to human beings. In seven years, 13,000,000 radios were placed in American homes, and the speed with which our country accepts and adopts a new idea. The latest change to become accepted is the use of cigarettes. And we hold that even youngsters in the high school age, between 14 and 18, are rapidly becoming addicted to the "little white smoke." A generation ago young boys who wanted to be seen for what they were in their early twenties; today girls in their early teens are paying homage to Lady Nicotine.

Admittedly, the experiments of others have been visited upon today's generation at a comparatively early age.

Hoax To Pay

The editor sat with his head in his hands.

And his elbows at rest on his desk.

He was tired of the ever-increasing demands.

On his time, and he panted for

The scanner for copy was scorned with a sneer.

And he sighed in the lowest of tones:

Why somebody come with a dog,

to close up a door.

The heart of Emanuel Jones?"

Just then on the stairway a footstep was heard.

And a rap-tap loud at the door.

And the flickering hope that had long been deferred.

To hope like a beacon once more;

And there entered a man with a cynical smile.

He was fringed with a stubble of hair.

Who remarked, as he tilted a sorry old file.

To the back of an average head:

"I have come here to pay—"

Here the editor cried:

"You're as welcome as flowers—"

Sixteen in this easy armchair by my side."

And excuse me awhile till I bring

A handsome dush with a little old wine.

And a dozen cigars of the best.

"Ah! Here we are! This, I assure myself, most desirable guest."

The visitor draw with a relish, and mouthed.

Then his face wore a satisfied glow.

And the editor, beaming with mirth,

In a joyous, spontaneous flow;

And then the stock of refreshments was gone.

His great oral occasion to say,

In a somewhat somberly by a year,

"My arrond' up here is to pay—"

But the general scribbles with a wave of the hand.

Put a stop to the speech of his guest;

Amidst a bright in the morn, the finest

Ever here on the greenest grass;

Housewives Here Invited To Free Cooking School

Birmingham and vicinity is go-making of cakes, pies, salads, soups and a host of family recipes.

This free cooking school, the first of its kind ever held in Michigan, will be opened next week at the Community House!

It was assured early this week when The Eccentric found it possible to obtain the services of Miss Gladys Helen Phillips, a nationally famous cooking authority, to give a series of lectures, first and foremost, in the preparation of foods, as well as acquainting her with the latest trends in cooking.

Every woman attending all of the three days' meetings of the school will be given free admission. Persons attending, without cost, at each session, with a grand prize Saturday afternoon, just before the school closed.

Starting Thursday at 1:30 o'clock, Miss Phillips will demonstrate "The Up-to-Date cupboard." Friday and will demonstrate "How to Entertain." Saturday she will reveal how to "Entertain in Color."

Be sure to bring a pencil and notebook. Miss Phillips has conducted successful cooking schools in many parts of the country, including one in Detroit, associated with the Michigan Department of Education.

Commencement ceremonies for the Baldwin graduating class of 1932 will be held Saturday evening with the annual Baldwin Commencement service in the Baptist Church.

Although for the past several years the graduation has been held in the Baldwin Auditorium, this year's class accepted the invitation of the Birmingham Ministers' Association.

For pictures of the Baldwin High School graduating class, see Page 5, Part I.

Association to bring it into appropriate surroundings and increased musical facilities.
