Old Fashioned 'Fourth' Gives Way To Country Club Era

Three cheers for the Fourth of July—as it is today. Nowadays it really is a holiday with an opportunity for rest and recreation. A good way to appreciate it is to reflect back about 20 years (if you're willing to admit that many within your span of memory) and think of the glorious Fourth in the reign of King Firecracker.

In those alleged good old days, Willie, Jimmie, Johnnie and their argument of neighborhood hopefulness at 5 A. M. and engaged in a merry dim under Papa's window. After the first 10 boom-booms, and after a tin can in its own ascent from an smoocher this is a "cannon cracker" just behind the window, Papa rose in benevolent wrath to bring the youngsters to justice.

But as racketeers are hard to get your hand on, the offenders do not get up their nose factory under Uncle Jim's window before dawn by an irate parent. And so Jim, lacking authority to
