

LOCAL SCOUTS TO JOIN RALLY

Birmingham Troops Plan To Appear Friday In County Jamboree

Boy Scouts of Birmingham are planning to participate in what is expected to be one of the most impressive spectacles in the county this year, to be held at Farmington Friday evening. The event will be part of the annual Rally and Jamboree of the Oakland Area Scout Council, comprising 30 troops.

Although Birmingham troops are not members of the Oakland Area Council, but of the Wayne Council, an invitation has been extended to local Scout leaders and it is expected Birmingham will be well-represented. All of the Scouts of Birmingham are also welcomed. Last year 4,000 attended the Rally at Rochester, and this figure is expected to be surpassed at Farmington.

The Council Court of Honor promises to provide one of the most striking outdoor scenes witnessed in the county. Scout Executive Herbert Wilson finds an ideal spot for the pageant, a natural amphitheater overlooking Hanger River, which is spanned by a narrow bridge. Flood-lights will be installed, and in this natural setting, just after darkness falls, the Scouts who have won distinctions will cross the Bridge of Honor to receive their merit badges.

Proceeding the Court of Honor will be a parade, starting at 7 P. M. sharp, which will include many Scouts dressed as Indians, in full warpaint and regalia. Two bands will furnish music.

The parade, to be held on Grand River avenue, will halt at Farmington's famous Log Cabin, recently given to the Scouts for their use by the state. Gen. Wilbur Brucker will be present and raise the flag, following with a short address. Mayor Lamb will present the keys of the cabin.

Atherton Points Way To Recovery

(Continued from Page 1, Part 2) That emergency is not only justifiable, but refusal to make use of such a measure solely on the grounds of "unwise precedent" would seem to indicate lack of information or a faulty sense of proportion in those so refusing.

Not a Precedent—Further, the adoption of a measure in time of emergency does not establish a precedent for application when conditions are normal.

The second major objection to the measure is the inevitable assertion that Special Merchantize Currency, though not "cheap," is "irregular" money and should be avoided as the plague.

Technically, it is "irregular" money, but, at the same time, it is anything but "unsound." On the contrary, should this "irregular" money be the means of restoring the country to a state of prosperity, it may be judged as even more sound than our standard currency.

This special currency must not be confused with "cheap" or "managed" currencies such as have proven ruinous in various foreign countries. Special Merchantize Currency as prepared is as sound (no more and no less) as the standard currency that it replaces.

Third Objection—The chief objection undoubtedly will be that of "discriminatory legislation," but it will be more profitable for the number and influence of its advocates than for validity of argument.

This particular array of critics will include the short-sighted individuals numbered among those engaged in all the various businesses and services listed in Group A of the Table of Disbursements in Part One, but, more particularly, those concerned with the manufacture and distribution of goods, beverages, clothing, footwear and food.

As also stated in Part One, these businesses are included in the "Indispensable Merchandise and Essential Services" category, and expenditures for same have reached practically an irrefutable minimum. Therefore, institution of this plan cannot decrease their sales to any extent. On the other hand, they will be among those chiefly benefited by a return of normal business conditions.

Not Perfect—No plan is or can be perfect. For example, it would be highly desirable if a practical way could be found to include under this proposal, employers of fewer than three persons. However, it is believed that the benefits to be derived would be more than offset by administrative difficulties.

Many other objections to this plan may be expected, but it is not believed they will be of sufficient importance to merit attention at this time. The author earnestly suggests that this plan be neither accepted nor rejected without careful study and reflection. It is particularly requested that it shall not be disapproved for some seeming faults until such objections have been submitted for the author's consideration and comment.

ADDITIONS MADE TO 'Y' CAMP STAFF

Supervisors Named For Every Summer Program At Camp

Robert D. Lund, director, yesterday announced the appointment of Henry J. Loper of Pontiac as supervisor of the boys' side boys' section, and of Fleming Harbour of Ann Arbor as Program supervisor of the young men's side. Lund also announced the following additions to the camp staff:

George Cooley, principal at Adams Junior High School, as business manager; taught Garrison, graduate of the University of Illinois and instructor in Lincoln Junior High School of Pontiac; Duane Barrett, supervisor of woodcraft and hiking, graduate of the University of Michigan; and James R. Mott, graduate of Western State Teachers' College as supervisor of arts and crafts; George Winborn and Earl Zoeger, both of Birmingham, expect to spend one period at camp as leaders.

As its name indicates, the camp is sponsored by the four Oakland County Y.M.C.A. organizations. In addition, a group of 12 active trustees form the camp organization and supervise its operation. The work of the administrative divisions is carried on by four committees of more than 20 members each. The camp opens June 25. Applications are being received daily at Y.M.C.A. headquarters, 104 South Bates street, according to Mr. Lund.

Sixteen Mile and Crooks roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chappell left yesterday for Indiana where they will spend a week with friends and relatives.

The Big Beaver Church and Sunday School Board will meet Friday evening the 25th at 7:30 in Troy. A pot-luck lunch will be served.

Two Cities Join Gas Rate Inquiry

(Continued from Page 1, Part 2) information, which is hoped will furnish grounds for request for lower gas rates, is estimated at $1,000 to be pro-rated against each community which co-operates in proportion to its size.

Although the Birmingham Commission authorized the expenditure of $100 for this purpose, Birmingham's share of the total cost would be only $100. Mr. Parry has estimated. With the minimum share $25, other communities would be assessed about as follows:

Pontiac, $250; Royal Oak, $250; Ferndale, $250; Berkley, $50; Clawson, $40; Pleasant Ridge $32; Oak Park, Bloomfield Hills and Huntington Woods, each $25.

Most of the expense of the proposed investigation centers around the hiring of a paid investigator.
