PONTIAC SIXES and V-EIGHTS

TWO brothers, both out of jobs. Both had been short on saving, long on pending. . . . Where would they be now without Brother Dick, who, fortunately, has had the foresight to be thrifty? He's lately been acting as a sort of family "unemployment refief committee," tiding his brothers over from his Savings Account.

"Thanks, Dick," they say, "Never mind the thanks," says Dick. "Just promise me one thing—that you'll start Sayings Accounts of your own as soon as you get on the payroll again."
