E. P. Waldron Dies Of Heart Attack

Funeral services were held in St. John's Monday for E. P. Waldron, owner of the Waldron Hotel in Pontiac and father of Mrs. Stowe D. Baldwin, 1238 Dorchester road, who dropped dead Saturday of a heart attack in the office of the Secretary of State at Lansing. He was 74 years old and had lived in Bloomfield Highlands for the past 22 years.

Surviving, besides Mrs. Baldwin, are the widow and one son.

Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. Victor Ogden, Mrs. Arlene Lynch, and volunteers from all constituent organizations. Finance—Harry Allen, chairman; James W. Taylor, Harry Blissett, Howard D. Crull, E. Averill, chairman; Thomas J. Marindale, Mrs. Hope F. Lewis.

"There has not been a time without in the memory of most of us when so many good and substantial people have, through causes largely beyond their control, found themselves deprived of the bare necessities of life," said Mr. Johnson in commenting on the purposes and functions of the Committee.

"None has escaped entirely from the consequences of this economic catastrophe, but in this community there are so many who have fared so well comparatively, that the problem of aiding those who have suffered must be fairly simple.

"I consider principally of providing a channel through which those who have the means and the desire to help in this emergency can reach those who need this help.

"To accomplish this result to best advantage, an organization which attempts to provide this channel must be as broad as possible. It must be imbued with the spirit of neighborly helpfulness in a time of calamity.

"It must have within it that deep quality of human understanding which leaves no sting of disgrace or loss of self-respect to those helped; but it must also have within it the power to stop those who would take unworthy advantage if permitted.

"It must have within it a spirit of unified and co-operative effort for a common good.

"It must have omitted from its rivalry or competition, other than that competition as to who best can serve and best agree.

"Having been chosen chairman of a Central Welfare Council by representatives of some 30 organizations, with the objectives above outlined, I ask the support and co-operation of the people of this community with this Council."

The Council is composed of the following constituent organizations: Bloomfield Township, Village of Birmingham, Community House, public schools, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Rotary, Anna, Red Cross, Holy Name, Presbyterian Women's Union, Baptist Church Society, The Methodist Episcopal Church, St. James' Episcopal Church, United Presbyterian Church, Y. M. C. A., Presby. Day Club, Goodfellow Club, Philomen Club, Girl Scout Council, Boy Scout Exchange Club, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Birmingham Business Women's Club, Embury Methodist Church, Redemptorist, League of Women Voters, Women's Literary Club, National Guild, Girl Reserve, Theatre and Barnum School Parent-Teacher Association, Teachers' Guild.

Committee at Waldron's home nation would be (1) to raise money for more money for the "Emergency Government." Correspondent Anderson said "we recall the courageous figures of Clay, Calhoun and Webster, who in my opinion, were the greatest statesmen of our country. They were just as great as any who have occupied the Upper House in Washington."

It may interest you to know that college and high school boys, as well as men, are being recruited for the new Government state legislature may be, when the emergency revenue bill is passed. The Governor-elect, Fitzgerald, is carrying out, it is said, in the current fiscal year, a line for diminished revenues from the state treasury.

amendment at last week's election, and Birmingham's intention of becoming a city. It will probably adopt a lower assessed property valuation, which anticipated revenue increase.

The library's income from a half-mill tax provided for in the grant by which the village received the original library property from Martin Baldwin.

The village collects the tax, but no provision is made for the deed for the possibility of delinquent taxes.

Up to this year, the village had the full amount of the half-mill tax over and over, whether it had been collected or not. At the beginning of the current fiscal year, the village agreed to pay the library 75 percent of the levy and two weeks ago members of the commission suggested that a further reduction in the levy would be desirable in the face of a 40 percent collection of the general village tax levy for 1932 to date.

awarded. These two Jack Miller as the season's best caddy and to Chuck Tye as the caddy champion, which he has held for two years.

In addition to Edwards' address, a member of the Club Board of Directors also spoke briefly. The banquet was in charge of Caddy Chairman W. P. Little, assisted by Jack Larcene.

And now it seems there was a race at the village, in the Municipal Building last week, after all. Malcolm Ross, conscientious janitor at the Building, explained that the flag was draped on the side wall of the voting place, but that it was rash and confusion caused by the largest vote in the township history, two extra voting booths were set up and placed directly in front of the flag, hiding it from view of ballotcasters. So the woman who complained to the janitor that she had voted for the first time in any state in the United States, and Striped failed to float.

An ambitious group of girls in the seventh grade at Barnum School recently organized a "Young Writers' Club in the hope of becoming future newspaper women or novelists. Officers elected at the first meeting Monday included Dorothy Ann McCormick, president; Alice Painter, vice-president; and Joan Campbell, secretary. Several of the members have had articles published in newspapers and other periodicals.

Obituary

MRS. ELLEN C. KIRBY
Funeral services were held Monday for Mrs. Ellen Ruth Chatfield Kirby, who died in St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac Friday after an illness of three days.

Mrs. Kirby, who was 35 years old, was born in Troy Township and attended Baldwin High School from which she was graduated in 1925. She was married July 9, 1926, to Welby D. Kirby, who survives.

She is survived also by her three-year-old son, William James Kirby, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chatfield of Troy, and two sisters, Mrs. Irma Jewell and Mrs. Lillian Miller.

Burial was in White Chapel Cemetery.

JOHN C. STAHL
John C. Stahl, 73 years old, of Bloomer drive, Bloomfield Hills, died Nov. 9 following a stroke of apoplexy. He had been a resident in Bloomfield Hills for the past seven years, after coming to this country from Germany where he was born 73 years ago.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Schaffler Stahl, and two sons, John C. Stahl, Jr., also residing on Bloomer drive and from whose home the funeral services were held Saturday.

The Rev. W. Clarence Wright officiated. Burial was in Woodmere Cemetery.

Theater Manager

Sued For Divorce

Charging that her husband forged fishing trips as an excuse to visit his former wife in Cleveland, O., Charlotte Holah filed a suit for divorce in Circuit Court Tuesday against Howard C. Holah, 2806 Euclid avenue, manager of the Birmingham Theater.

The complaint sets forth that she was married to Holah July 3, 1925. Both had been married previously. Besides visiting his first wife on numerous occasions, the suit alleges, Holah was at one time also infatuated with another married woman.

The Women's Union of the Presbyterian Church has postponed its meeting until Nov. 30.
