

Baldwin Meets Rochester Saturday In First Debate

Baldwin High School debaters will experience their first real test of the 1933-34 season Saturday night when they will journey to Rochester to compete in their first elimination debate for the state championship. The question which is being argued by high school students throughout the state this year is "Resolved, that the State of Michigan should enact a state income tax." The negative case will be defended by the Michigan team.

The Birmingham team, under the direction of H. Earle Corcoran, had its last practice debate in preparation for Rochester Monday afternoon at Redford. This was the fourth preliminary meet in which Baldwin has participated. No decision was given.

Mr. Corcoran has not yet announced the team which will compete against Rochester. The squad has declined to four members, George Flynn, Jim Walker, Bill Hutchinson and Bruce Hurling, two of whom were members of last year's team.

Birmingham dropped from the Southeastern Michigan Forensic League, of which it was a member last year, and is entering directly into the state contest. This places a larger premium on each of its four main debates, since one defeat greatly impairs its chances of further progress.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

It's easy to be forgotten if you have no telephone

When friends plan parties and other good times, often "on the spur of the moment", they usually turn to the telephone to invite the "crowd". For telephoning is the easiest and quickest way. As a result, those without telephones miss many good times.

A telephone costs surprisingly little... only a few cents a day. It helps in finding employment. It is a social and business aid. And it is PRICELESS PROTECTION IN EMERGENCIES, enabling you to summon doctor, fireman, or police instantly, day or night.

Just one telephone call in an emergency may save the worth more than the cost of the service for a lifetime.

STUDENTS HEAR SUPERINTENDENT

Crandell Tells Advantages Of Classroom Investments In Artistic Program

"Student Dividends" was the title of the address given by Charles W. Crandell, superintendent of schools, at the Baldwin High School assembly last night. It was Mr. Crandell's first speaking appearance before Birmingham students. The assembly was a part of the special program in which students took part Friday.

The only investment made in the organization of school is time, one cannot expect large dividends. But much more is invested by most students and dividends are consequently larger.

Mr. Crandell said, "Schools aim to give you confidence in your mental powers, faith in yourself, fellowmen and God, and, above all, happiness in your work. We are the dividends for those who invest more than time in the organization."

Schools do not give one more knowledge, he said. An educated person needs more than knowledge. He needs the power to do. And the power which school gives one is not power over others. It is not limited to any particular channel.

"Among other things, the power which school gives you includes ability to reason, love for the good, and emotional balance," Mr. Crandell stated. "From school one may glimpse the true ideals of life, as school life is real."

"If culture is to become truly a part of yourself, you must chisel it from the facilities at your command. Reach now for the dividends within your grasp," he concluded.

A vocal solo by Stewart McDonald, accompanied by Phyllis Huston, was another feature of the assembly program. Joseph Maunders presided.

The Armistice Day program also included speeches given by various session rooms by members of the speech classes and a passing by grade and high school students. The parade was accompanied by the Baldwin High School Band and Drum and Bugle Corps of the Birmingham and Pontiac American Legion Posts.

Mr. Crandell said, "Schools aim to give you confidence in your mental powers, faith in yourself, fellowmen and God, and, above all, happiness in your work. We are the dividends for those who invest more than time in the organization."

B. H. S. LISTS 45 HONOR STUDENTS

16 Seniors, 16 Juniors, 13 Sophomores Named On First Six-Week Roll

The names of approximately 10 percent of the students at Baldwin High School appeared on the honor roll announced early this week by Miss Charlotte Wood, librarian. A total of 45 pupils had marks of "B" or above during the first six-week period ending Oct. 25.

The list included 16 members of the senior class. They are Clayton Brelsford, Harry Brelsford, Billy Cruickshank, Eldridge Drury, George Flynn, Bob Gibbons, Helen Halley, Phyllis Huston, Mary Louise Johns, Marjorie Kiddler, Joseph Maunders, Virginia Packard, Mary Palmer, Betty Quarton, Jim Walter and Robert Ziegler.

The junior class is represented by an equal number of members. They are Frances Beckley, Fred Boynton, Harriet Brelsford, Henry Foley, Max Hodge, William Homick, Walter Jensen, Ross Lofgren, Louise Otterman, Mary Ann Reed, Bob Sabom, Bob Savage, Betty Sears, Martha Stoll, Betty Wilson and Betty Wood.

From the 10 grade the following students were named: Bob Bles, Jane Brede, Jane Cherry, Roberta Chisum, Annabel Dahlquist, Victoria Gellatly, Lucile Hallett, Jane Long, John Parker, Franklin Phillips, Bennett Root, Dorothea Staebler and Marjorie Tate.

Mr. Crandell said, "Schools aim to give you confidence in your mental powers, faith in yourself, fellowmen and God, and, above all, happiness in your work. We are the dividends for those who invest more than time in the organization."

Al Watrous To Play In Winter Tourneys

Oakland Hills Pro Joins Nation's Stars In Search Of Rich Prizes

Al Watrous, professional at the Oakland Hills Country Club, and runner-up in the 1932 Canadian Open Championship, will join the professional golfing caravan who spend their winter months golfing for rich tournament prizes. Watrous's entry has been received by officials of the national match play open golf championship, which is the opening event of California's winter golfing season. The tournament will be held over the Lakeside course, San Francisco, Dec. 7 to 12.

The national match play open, which, aside from the fact that it is the inaugural event of the winter season, is the only match play event among the various winter tournaments. Leading amateurs and professionals who qualify over an 18-hole roster play three 18-hole matches, with the quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals going over 36 holes.

Leading members of the professional golfing caravan who will spend their winter in quest of golf success, British and U.S. States open champion, Leo Diegel, Billy Dutra, George Von Elm, Billy Burke, Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Al and Al Esposito, Sam Runyan, Johnny Dawson, Bill Melhorn, Benny Longwin, Craig Wood, Dewey Longwin and many others.

From A WOMAN'S ANGLE

By MARJORIE BLAKE BATES

Linner was over, and hosts and guests sat chatting in a mood of confidential geniality, inspired by the fact that they were alone for the day.

"Can you tell me," asked a woman, "how it is that you are so much more at ease with a woman than a man?"

"I suppose," she replied, "because you are a woman and I am a woman."

"When a man and a woman are alone together, they are alone together," she said.

"They do take their bargaining seriously! And when they give up to give bargaining, they do as the Romans do, and now!"

Apparently, a man never experiences the thrill inspired by a sign on a table: "While they last..."

Of course, this is no justification for rudeness. And believe it or not, many hostesses are just intentionally rude when they charge down on some unsuspecting bargain.

Not any more than a man is intentionally rude when, tense and sagging, he is about to make a difficult shot on a golf course, and some woman unwittingly interrupts him.

And even though he is a perfect gentleman, there are certain remarks he makes when taken unawares.

There are other times, too!

But, if women will just remember that back of the seeming masculine rudeness there is probably the same intensity and eagerness, for any reason or another, that prompts their own pushing, shoving and elbow-digging when attacking a juicy bargain, they will be able to philosophically, and mend their own ways.

Because they should!

SCOUTS NEWS

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

According to information received this week from national headquarters, there has been a number of revisions made in the requirements for Second, First Life and Eagle Scout ranks. The following changes were approved by the Executive Board, to become effective Jan. 1:

A. Under the existing law, a Scout who wishes to attain First Class Scout rank will have to be able to identify the rank length of service and position of leadership of scouts and local scouters by means of their badges and insignia, in addition to the two month's service as a Second Class Scout.

In place of the substitution of Safety for Pioneering in the Life Scout and Eagle Scout requirements, as previously adopted, the Executive Board ruled that Safety will be added to the requirements of Life Scout rank as an alternative to Life Saving or Pioneering, and that Safety will be made an additional required subject for Eagle rank, leaving nine optional subjects instead of 10.

The requirements for leathercraft, radio, sailing and safety merit badges were altered slightly. Scouts who wish to obtain these changes may procure them from their scoutmasters.

Birmingham's part in the "Ten Year Program" of the scout organization will be discussed at the next leaders' meeting to be held sometime in December. It is hoped that by that time one troop from Birmingham will have qualified for the "Silver Award for Achievement."

WHY USE ORDINARY DRY CLEANING and SACRIFICE QUALITY

Sanders Tri-Cleaning is the scientific, modern process using the costly solvent Trichlorethylene instead of ordinary naphtha. Naphtha cleaned garments require extreme heat for drying and deodorizing, weakening and destroying the tiny filaments of fabrics. Trichlorethylene evaporates immediately without heat, eliminating unnecessary wear and tear. That's why Sanders Tri-Cleaned garments are cleaned cleaner, stay cleaner longer and wear longer.
