NEW ELECTRICAL CODE IN EFFECT

Village Adopts New Licensing Ordinance To Regulate Installations

A new ordinance licensing electricians in the village and regulating the installation of electrical equipment is in effect today, following its unanimous approval by members of the Commission Monday night.

The ordinance which is an amendment to sections of previously existing ordinances and especially to portions of the building code, provides that all electrical installations must be made by licensed electricians. Licenses must be secured yearly from the village clerk on the payment of a $5 fee and an examination by the manager. They expire on June 1 of each year.

The ordinance establishes a definite schedule of fees for the installation of various kinds of equipment, and by removing the ban on some types of wiring and fixtures prohibited by previous ordinances, is expected to lower the cost of home building and furnishing in Birmingham, according to Manager James W. Barry.

The measure also provides for the appointment of a municipal electrical inspector by the manager.

Jack Woodruff, son of Mrs. Ethelyn Woodruff of Greenwood avenue, will leave Sunday to enter Michigan State College at East Lansing. Woodruff was graduated from Baldwin High School in June.

from the 12th district in doubt, with John R. Rood of Ann Arbor still something of an unknown quantity. A. L. Moore of Pontiac was leading in Oakland County by nearly 3,000 votes over James E. Lawson, Royal Oak incumbent. Rood trailed Lawson in Oakland by nearly 8,000.

Mabel L. Brundige appeared certain of re-nomination to the office of register of deeds on the Republican Ticket with a 1,500-vote lead over Harry E. Curtis, her nearest rival, and more than 7,000 over A. J. Raby.

The Democratic nomination was closely contested between Henry T. McGaughan, Florence MacIntosh and George Westbrook, who were separated by less than a hundred votes. Raymond R. Thompson and Jessie M. O'Donoghue appeared out of the running.

The Democratic nomination for clerk was won by Thomas J. Brady, who held a 2,000-vote lead over Clare W. Burke, and was still farther ahead of Maynard Quick and James Shanley.

Earl L. Phillips and Harry J. Merritt won the Republican nominations for Circuit Court Commissioners, with Phillips heading the ticket and Merritt establishing a lead of nearly 2,000 ballots over Verner C. Hampton. Sherman McDonald and Harold E. Storz were other defeated candidates.

Charles S. Porritt and Charles A. Holman led the field for the Democratic nominations, with Holman 1,300 and Porritt 2,300 votes ahead of Orph C. Holmes.

Patterson Beats Hatcher

Samuel J. Patterson, Pontiac won the Democratic nomination for judge of Probate Court, leading Henry W. Harpster by more than 2,000 and Gertrude Clinton by more than 4,000 votes. Judge Dan McCaffey was unopposed for renomination by the Republicans.

Another close race between Lee F. Dawson and William F. Dohany for the Democratic nomination to the State senate from the 12th district left that race in doubt also, although Dawson held a lead of 400 votes at the last returns.

A similar finish was in prospect for the Democratic nomination for representative from the first district, with Clayton Crissman but 200 votes ahead of August A. Miller. Melvin H. Lee was unopposed for re-nomination on the Republican ticket.

William R. Ransom scored an easy victory over Charles R. Hauke for the nomination as county drain commissioner on the Republican ticket, collecting nearly twice as many votes as his opponent. The Democratic race resulted similarly, with Murray A. Van Wagoner the victor and Eugene Douglas the loser. Van Wagoner is the incumbent.

Cranbrook To Open Gridiron Season Against Detroit City Freshmen Oct. 7

Coach C. A. Keppel of Cranbrook School is confronted this fall with the task of developing four good lineups to fill the schedule of games arranged by the athletic association. With the first game on Oct. 7, he has three weeks in which to line up the Cranbrook varsity, and a fourth week before the addition to the Cranbrook faculty and J. J. Finnegan, who will continue to act as trainer. The schedule opens with a game at Cranbrook against the City College freshmen, who were defeated by Cranbrook, 7 to 6, last fall. On Oct. 14, Detroit University School comes to Cranbrook, followed on Oct. 22 by the Nichols School of Buffalo.

Cranbrook meets Birmingham in the Cranbrook stadium on Friday, Oct. 28, as Cranbrook won 7 to 0 in 1931 and Birmingham in 1931, the outcome of this game is awaited with interest. On Nov. 4 the freshmen team of Albion College comes to Cranbrook for the last home game of the season. Cranbrook journeys to Howe Military Academy on Nov. 12, and to Cleveland University School on Nov. 19 to complete the schedule.

The announcement of Cranbrook's wider athletic relations will be of interest to sports fans. It is rumored that Michigan will become a fourth State in the Tri-State League over the world during the past 50 years, due to the mechanical and materially inventive age of man. He said that no longer can a nation hold to a strict policy of isolation, but, after tending to its own internal affairs, it must seek to join in a world brotherhood of peoples.

The human race must be educated to an understanding of its relation to itself, it must be acquainted with the eternal verities of the moral law, before anything like lasting peace and plenty will come to stay, he declared.

Prior to Mr. Bingay's address Thaddeus Wronski, director of the Detroit Civic Opera, spoke for 10 minutes in behalf of the Detroit Symphony Society, asking that Birmingham lend its vigorous aid in a campaign to sell advance coupons for the Society's coming winter season. Mrs. H. H. Gardner and Mrs. Donald Stanton were at the Community House and sold coupons to many of the club members present.

James W. Taylor, president of the Kalyal Exchange Club, presided over the meeting.

imagine such weather after a noonday that was roasting hot. No wonder the trout failed to rise. They were probably holding a heated conference to determine what was wrong with the weather.

Some day that trip we again beacon me. Now that I've traversed part of it, because associated with some of it pools and fast water, I'll do my best to tangle in with something up to seven or eight pounds of fighting, foaming and wiring trout. The Au Sable is a beautiful stream, worth going down just for the scenery. Tryit, and learn more to love Michigan.

was forced several times to resort to spectacular methods to save himself from disaster, one occasion being when he evoked generous applause by putting across a remarkable hooked shot which carried his ball through a group of trees and safely along the upper edge of a bunker at the edge of the green.

Though he was occasionally in the lead by one hole, Jasezke managed through his skill in the middle of the round, and Koesis began to creep up on him. At the 11th hole, Kocsis was one up at the 12th the Jacksonian evened the score, and at the 13th Koesis again crept into the lead, and held it for three holes as the play halved the scores. Then in the 16th Passage evened the score again, the play halved hole, and the additional hole was necessary to break the deadlock.

Complains of Lie

In protest from Passage in the 18th hole evened the proceedings. He drove his ball into a water hazard just before reaching the hole and protested to his opponent and the gallery that the lie was unplayable. General opinion ruled against him, however, and he was forced to throw the ball out and lose a stroke, with a chance for victory in his grasp. Passake sent the ball his ball slightly beyond the green after a remarkable drive of more than 300 yards.
