

BUCK HEARS 71 CASES IN MONTH

Justice Has Busiest Period in Year; 16 Arraigned Under Local Ordinances

Criminal cases heard by Justice Hoyt S. Buck in August numbered 71, the largest in more than a year, according to his monthly report.

The cases included 16 in which the defendants were accused of violating Birmingham Village ordinances, 29 of violating Bloomfield Hills ordinances and 26 of breaking state laws.

Five of the defendants arraigned by Birmingham police were charged with speeding, four with disorderly conduct, three with drunk driving, two with reckless driving and two with violating traffic signals. Fines amounted to $220.00 and costs to $97.40.

The Bloomfield Hills cases included 19 of disorderly conduct, three of trespassing, two of violating traffic signals, two of reckless driving, two of speeding and one of drunk driving.

Officers arraigned 17 defendants before Justice Buck on charges of violating state traffic regulations, one for simple larceny, two for assault and battery, one for disturbing the peace, one for failure to carry a license, two for drunk driving, one for assault with intent to do great bodily harm, and one for trafficking in registered milk bottles.

Fines and costs totalled $205.30 and $80.47. One defendant was bound over to Circuit Court, one was acquitted in his jury trial, two were sentenced to County Jail, and one case was still out of court.

LEWIS TAKES TENNIS TITLE

Detroit Beats Tait, Defending Champ, in Birmingham Open Finals

New titleholders were crowned in the singles and doubles of the Birmingham Open Tennis Tournament last Saturday and Sunday when the annual tournament were played on the Birmingham Tennis Club's courts.

Charles Lewis, of Detroit, who was defeated in last year's final, defeated Francis Tait, also of Detroit, in the final Saturday in the 1932 final and took the title for the first time in his career.

Tait, who has won the title for the past two years had only one win in the tournament trophy would become his. Although noted out in the singles, Tait and his partner, Milton Lewis, Detroit Public Park singles champion, came out victorious in a long five set match with Lewis and Wagner, the defending doubles champions.

Lewis beats Hammer Lewis had an especially hard bracket to work in the singles, having to meet Ed Hammer, captain and number one of the University of Michigan team for two years, in the third round, and N. C. Maxwell, winner of the tournament for two years, in the quarter-final. Lewis defeated Max Gurman, Detroit court tennis champion, in the final.

In Saturday's final match, each player was handicapped by the strong wind, which made it difficult to lob and to just stand.

Tait, who was seeded number one, got away to a good start by taking the first set with little difficulty. Lewis came back in the second set to break Tait's service and then with his own. Lewis led in the set 4-0, when Tait staged a rally and made several beautiful short ball volleys and advanced the score to 4-3.

Lewis won his serve and again broke through Tait's to take the set. Through the first two sets Lewis had difficulty with Tait's chop strokes, having to pat them back the best he could. But starting in the third set and throughout the remainder of the match his drive showed much improvement and he was able to smash and drive the chops at will.

Tait Hits Stump

In the doubles, the play was carried to five sets with each set bitterly contested. Beyer and Wagner played an exceedingly steady game, making several seemingly impossible "gets" and lobbing at every opportunity. But the hard game of Tait and Bielsfeldt, more than the veteran pair could handle.

In the fourth set, Beyer and Wagner were leading 3-0, when Tait dropped into a slump and could make neither his service nor drive effective. Bielsfeldt pulled this set out of the fire by winning his serve and taking Beyer's nearly singlehanded.

Beyer and Wagner took the set, 4-2, in the fifth set. Bielsfeldt took his serve, and Tait, the latter now playing his regular game, took the next three, making the cup.

VILLAGERS TO HEAR LECTURE ON EMISSION

Several residents of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills are planning to attend a lecture to be given in the auditorium of the Lawrence Institute of Technology at 11 A. M. Friday night, Francis Jehl, now connected with the Edison Institute of Technology.

Mr. Jehl's lecture will deal with life and death of Thomas A. Edison. Mr. Jehl is the only surviving co-worker with Mr. Edison who discovered the electric light. Later he became a representative of the Edison Company in original foreign countries, and a now supervisor of West Park, Edison's original experimental laboratory which has been brought from New Jersey to Henry Ford's Greenfield Village.

The lecture will be open to the public and other interested assemblies sponsored by the Institute and held every Friday.

Watrous, Higbie Win Golf Titles At Tourneys Here

Oakland Hill Pro Beats Country Club Player Sets Record in Women's District

All Watrous' regular Oakland Hill wife is leaving the Birmingham Professional Golf Association's women's tournament Friday when she scores a brilliant 63, a record for the third time in the annual tournament over Mrs. Fiesche, Jackson, C.A. Friday at Birmingham Golf Club.

Watrous' record put him up over Walter Gault in the number of times she has won the Michigan P. G. A. title, who announced she the title in 1930 and 1931, did not defend in crown this year.

Though Watrous had twice before won the Birmingham Open and had also won the Michigan P. G. A. title, her victory was the first at which she won in her career.

Watrous' record played his usual brilliant game with iron, whose putting was his strength and whose long game was his weakness. She established a record in the final round by shooting a 61, one under par, and during the 71-stroke match she had the advantage during the afternoon. Her card showed five birdies.

Francis Kocis, of the final round, despite an apparent defeat in the semifinal, won the hands of Emerick Kocis, of the Michigan P. G. A. He was disqualified in the Michigan P. G. A. for wilfully accepting a bribe of a member of the gallery in playing the 11th hole of the afternoon round.

On this hole, Kocis drove his ball into the side of a ditch which crossed the fairway a few yards in front of the green. First he started to play a member of the gallery in playing the 11th hole of the afternoon round.

Here Kocis' brother, Alex, a member of the gallery walked over and told Kocis to play the hole as it lay. Kocis picked up his ball and this time drove it on the other side of the ditch, playing a member of the gallery in playing the 11th hole of the afternoon round.

A. I. B. Presents Form State Chapter

Bankers Organize To Widen Scope Of Educational Functions in Michigan

Formation of the Michigan Chapter of the American Institute of Bankers, an association of 25 presidents and other executive officers of the national organization of the American Institute of Bankers, has been completed, according to an announcement by Herbert H. Gardner, executive vice-president of the Highland Park National Bank and member of the Michigan Institute of Bankers.

The new association is composed of the presidents of the following banks in Detroit, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Flint, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Ann Arbor and Pure Michigan, and has as its object the furthering of the educational work of the A. I. B. through the educational division of the American Bankers Association.

Mr. Gardner, who has been in Birmingham and is responsible for the organization of the association, emphasized the necessity of complete knowledge of the fundamental principles of banking on the part of young bankers, if the large problems of rehabilitation and recovery are to be solved, and he stressed the fact that protection for the depositors of banks, dependent upon the strictest adherence to the principles of sound banking practice by bank officials, and that he believes, only one source from education which will provide a higher type of banking service to the public.

BIG BEAVER COMPLE CHILD HURT IN CRASH

Charles McDaniel, 28 years old, of Big Beaver, Mich., and his wife, and their two children, 10-year-old, were cut and bruised, but not seriously injured, when their automobile was crushed by a truck on the road between Madag and West Edgewood in Hazel Park last Friday.

A John Deere tractor was assisting in the driver of the car when McDaniel reported that he was on foot with a woman companion immediately after the crash. Police found the tractor on the abandoned car, one set back on the other.

er to win the hole with a par three, and then finished the match on the 30th by one-putting for a five.

Mrs. Higbie's strongest weapon was her putter, which time and again gave her a one-stroke advantage over her opponent, and which enabled her to get more than any other feature of her game to play 19 holes in men's par and score one stroke.
