

WASHINGTON TRIP DROPPED

Toothacker Plans Student Trip To World's Fair Instead

The 1933 Baldwin High School Washington group trip to the capital city has been definitely abandoned, it was announced Tuesday by W. S. Toothacker, the group's advisor.

At a meeting held by the group Monday, Mr. Toothacker asked all students who desired to make a trip to Washington, this summer, instead of to the World's Fair at Chicago, to place a $5 deposit with him by Tuesday. Although nearly 20 students expressed their desire to go, only 10 made the deposit. According to Mr. Toothacker, 20 students would be required before the trip would be possible.

This year's trip would have been the first that a group representing Baldwin has made. The journey was started by Mr. Toothacker in 1922. Since that time the smallest group ever to make the trip was 22, in 1926. In past years an average of 30 students had made the journey yearly.

A call was sent out yesterday by Mr. Toothacker for all students to make a trip to Chicago for the purpose of attending a meeting this noon. He stated that this trip will not be limited to members of the Washington group, but will be available to all students, and possibly to non-student citizens. He expects 20 students to attend the meeting.

Mr. Toothacker went to Chicago last Friday to investigate hotel and train accommodations. He discovered it would be impossible for the group to be accommodated before the week of June 20. Therefore, the group is divided into two groups, as the advisor anticipates the first one will probably depart that date.

Efforts are being made in which the Washington group's money is deposited in a bank, and 100 per cent of the amount is returned to the organization, the remainder of the money, when paid, will be turned over to the next organization, which will probably be formed after next year, as the 1934 trip has been indefinitely postponed by the Board of Education, Mr. Toothacker said.

Cranbrook School Awaits Visit From Headmaster Of Its English Prototype

Mr. Scott, who is the nephew of Francis P. Scott, editor of the Manchester Guardian, was an instructor at the Tonbridge Wells School for Boys in England, and six years ago was made temporary headmaster of the Cranbrook School, becoming permanent headmaster the following year.

STUDENTS MOVE TO END THEIEVERY

An extensive campaign against the epidemic of petty thievery that has been going on at Baldwin High School in the past few months has been launched through the various young people's church groups in Birmingham. A committee of 10 students, two from each of five local churches, is making a careful study of the situation.

The committee, through various talks with the students, hopes to arouse the sentiment of the pupils against the stealing wave. Believing also that many of the stolen articles, such as books and pieces of clothing, were taken by students who were in actual need of those articles, the committee hopes to procure necessary clothing for all needy students.

Many of the stolen articles have been taken from lockers of 1932-33 in the hall. These lockers are about six feet high and are divided into two sections making the locker size about one by three feet. It is impossible to place a cut in a locker without reading or folding it.

In the past, students have placed their coats in the lockers and allowed them to hang out of the doors. As this encourages stealing, Principal Mahon, C. Hart has asked Louis Landfall, business manager, to investigate the expense of taking out the metal plates that separate the lockers from the upper lockers, thus making one six-foot locker from each tier. Mr. Hart said that if this is done, all students would be provided with keys and would be required to lock their lockers.

The church group investigating the problem is headed by Miss Phyllis Huston, chairman, and Billy Richardson, secretary.

The committee includes Robert Saborn and Walter Jensen, representing the First Presbyterian

TO THE CUSTOMERS OF THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY

This is the second of a string of letters intended to get some facts to your attention:

The hard times struck us in the autumn of 1929. We did not foresee the extent nor the duration of the troubles from which the nation now seems to be emerging. For the next fifteen months we continued to build new lines and install new machinery. What was started we finished. The President of the United States asked us to do this, instead of stopping suddenly. He wanted us to keep men at work. We spent on new plant and betterments:

| | | |
|-------------------|-------------------|------------------|
| 1928—$29,900,000 | 1930—$21,500,000 | 1932—$6,700,000 |
| 1929—$36,800,000 | 1931—$11,200,000 | |

Of course, we hoped all along that business would get better. So did everyone else. But all of us were disappointed. The use of our service declined for the first time in more than thirty years. Our sales of electricity were:

| | |
|-----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1929—2,287,936,540 kilowatt-hours | 1931—1,888,954,505 kilowatt-hours |
| 1930—2,063,085,722 kilowatt-hours | 1932—1,596,474,389 kilowatt-hours |

We did not cut down on service when business fell off. We kept it right up to quality and we intend to keep it so. It would be a saving for us to run four days or three days a week, but we cannot stop—not for a minute. Electric service must be instantly available at all times. Too much depends on it. We have as many men on operative duty as we ever did, because we never had any surplus help. We did quit construction, as building or machinery jobs became finished, and started only a few special jobs.

We have always had faith in the future of the community we serve. Through the World War the enormous demand for electricity had our designers busy trying to keep up. In no other city in the United States was the use of electricity increasing as rapidly as in Detroit in the past 30 years. Now in 1933 we have more plant than we need. Before the depression our judgment was good. We still believe that we will have to build new plants to keep up with the future of this community.
