Another Johnson

Knibborne Johnson, few workers at the NRA headquarters in Washington realize that Knibborne Johnson, who handles important legal decisions on code rulings, is the son of General Hugh S. Johnson, boss of the organization. The general asked his son to restore the "J" to the family name when the latter entered West Point, but neglected to make the change himself.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

With September nearly here, the harvest of fruits and vegetables is at its height. Most vegetables are both plentiful and low in price. All over the country, excellent western peas are available. Peas are especially good with poultry, lamb and with fish, all of which are good choices at the present time.

It is the height of the green corn season and the time to enjoy corn-on-the-cob. Tomatoes are ripe, sweet and juicy—and their best either raw or cooked. They are delicious stuffed with a mixture of cream and milk.

Peaches and cantaloupes are plentiful and of excellent quality. Bartlett pears are delicious, eaten out-of-hand or in salads. Nectarines are in market, but their season is brief.

Union approved by a representative trade association of his industry, or other representative organization designated by NRA, may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by NRA, if he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation. This agreement is entered into pursuant to section 4 (a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act and subject to all the terms and conditions required by sections 7 (a) and 10 (b) of that act.

Interpretation: A person who believes that some particular provision in the agreement, because of peculiar circumstances, will create great and unavoidable hardship, should prepare a petition to NRA asking for a stay of this provision as to him. He should then submit this petition to the trade association of his industry, or if there is none, to the local Chamber of Commerce or similar representative organization designated by NRA for its approval. The written approval of the trade association, or such organization, will be accepted by NRA as the basis for a temporary stay, until further investigation, pending decision by NRA. The petition must contain a promise to abide by NRA's decision so that, if NRA decides against the petitioner, he must give effect to the provision which was stayed, from the date of the decision of NRA.

The trade association or other organization, as prescribed above, should be forwarded to NRA in Washington, and the employer's signed copy of the President's re-employment agreement should be sent to the district office of the department of commerce. After complying with these requirements the employer will be entitled to receive and display the Blue Eagle by delivering his certificate of compliance to his postoffice.

Paragraph 14 is not intended to provide for group exceptions, but only to meet cases of individual hardship.

Girls Get 'New Deal'

To get the girls out of the bleachers and on to the playing field is the "new deal" for young women, according to Miss Edith M. Gates, newly elected chairman of the women's division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation. The bleachers have a tendency to attract too many girls, she states. An excellent way to celebrate the beginning of a new decade is to campaign in the interests of adult recreation. For several years Miss Gates has been health education adviser for the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York.

(12) Where, before June 16, 1933, the undersigned had contracted to purchase goods in a fixed price for delivery during the period of this agreement, the undersigned will make an appropriate adjustment of a fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed this President's re-employment agreement or having been bound by any Code of Fair Competition approved by the President.
