Smile While Awaiting 'The New Deal,' Schermerhorn Tells Managers

"Because we have not yet come into the era of the new deal, we need to smile," said James Schermerhorn, nationally known wit and humorist and former publisher of the Detroit Times, at the first annual Ladies' Night banquet given last Thursday by the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church.

There are many reasons why we laugh like human beings, Mr. Schermerhorn said—mistakes of speech, departure from the wit to the unexpected, ideas and phrases out of their normal relationship and queer combinations of words.

"Laughter that is spontaneous," he continued, "has the greatest appeal. It grows out of situations and is not manufactured. There are no better times than laughing that doesn't leave a smudge on the mind or a bad taste in the mouth. Many encounters of wit have been immortalized by raileries of repartee. We like our troubles softened by being made the basis of our ridicule and laughter through anecdote and burlesque.

"The racial joke has the greatest appeal. It does away with explanation, for we are always ready to get the point. The best joke is that which is borne out by the narrator and the hearer."

The great need for laughter, the speaker pointed out, is urged by doctors, pathologists, moralists and even religionists.

"It is time," he declared, "that we have more occasion for facial ripples. With the question, 'Where do we go from here?' waiting for an answer by democracy, mobocracy, autocracy or technocracy, it is necessary that we keep smiling. Problems arise wrought out better with smiles and patience than with bitterness and strife. Where there is no vision, people perish."

In the absence of the toastmaster, Walter T. Elliot, who was unable to attend the banquet because of illness, the speaker was introduced by Charles S. Kinison.

Best Thing That Ever Happened To Me," Daugherty Says

"It was the best thing that ever happened to me," said Barton P. Daugherty, former Oakland County clerk, looking back at his defeat in the polls last September, a defeat which ended an eight-year period of service in public office, and which resulted in his going to the practice of law.

Though regarded as one of the strongest Republicans in the county, Mr. Daugherty was defeated for nomination for reelection by Lynn B. Allen, a newcomer to the county clerk, and previous to that time was postmaster in Holly for three years.

Best Thing That Ever Happened To Me," Daugherty Says

But his defeat far from proving a major disappointment, as it might be to the fast-factitious office-seeker, has brought a feeling of actual relief to Mr. Daugherty.

"I'm working for myself now," he said, "and I have an opportunity to build something real for myself and my family. Before, I was just a subject, indebted to every other man, woman and child in the county."

Though he did seek nomination for another term, Mr. Daugherty is now banking to open a private law practice for several years. The story of how he prepared himself for the bar examination bears out the sincerity of his motives.

Mr. Daugherty's partner in his law firm is H. D. Hopkins, a graduate of the University of Michigan law school. Their office is in the Pontiac Bank Building.

Born In Ohio

Born in a small farming community near Sandusky, Mr. Daugherty came to Holly with his family when nine years old, and has since resided in Oakland County ever since. Now 37 years old, he was married and has two children, a son, 10 years old, and a daughter, one.

Mr. Daugherty served two years in the U. S. Navy during the World War. He is a member of the American Legion and of the Masonic and Elks Lodges.

While ever return to public office, Mr. Daugherty is not interested in that any more, he said in a simple comment. "Not interested at all."

WHAT I WOULD DO If I Were President

By RUSSELL D. HOPKINS, Pastor, First M. E. Church

First of all, I would try humbly to face the most serious world situation within the memory of any man now living, and laying aside all partisan considerations, I would seek to do what I want to do for the benefit of my people, and to use the influence of my high office to steady and reassure our citizens in their struggle toward a better day.

I would work for the equalization of the tax burdens borne by a majority of our people, by means of economies in costs of government, readjustment of taxation, and intelligent social legislation.

I would seek to promote a generally friendly spirit between this country and all foreign nations, realizing that as conditions now are, nations stand on the verge of peace and intelligent social legislation.

I would strive earnestly for the reduction of armaments, not only a matter of economy, but an example of my own faith in world peace and my purpose to work for it.

I would have my diplomatic policies upon the Kellogg Pact, and would challenge other countries to stand together in the common and desperate need of banishing war and of working in co-operative effort for true common understanding.

I know the far-reaching influence of the far-sighted, and would endeavor at all times to preserve the highest ideals of true Americanism, to encourage by utterance and example reverence for all law, and to inspire in all citizens to be worthy and unselfish trustees of a noble heritage.

Boy, 3, Rescued By Sister After Fall Through Ice

A 3-year-old Birmingham boy saved his life today by his seven-year-old sister, who pulled him to safety through the broken ice over eight feet of water in an open canal Sunday afternoon when several children stood by powerless to act.

The boy is Eugene Wilkins, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkins, 1368 Henrietta street. While playing with a group of other children in the morning, he fell through the ice, but was rescued by his sister, who broke through the thin ice to which he clung valiantly to prevent himself from sinking to the bottom of the chilly water.

While the other children, including a sister, Virginia, five years old, stood by wonderingly but failed to move, a younger sister, Marian, seven, stepped bravely to the edge of the broken ice, grasped her brother by the arm and pulled him to safety.

Suffering from cold, and his stomach partly filled with water, the boy was carried by his sister to a nearby house, where he was wrapped in a blanket and recovered from his harrowing experience without ill effects.

Oak Hill Club Takes Lead in Demanding On Foreclosures

Some seven or eight more farmers' clubs in Oakland County are expected within the next few days to follow the example of the Oak Hill Farmers' Club in adopting a resolution endorsing a two-year moratorium on foreclosures on mortgages and farm and home contracts.

Copies of the Oak Hill Club's resolution, adopted at a meeting last week, have been placed in the hands of judges and members of the State Legislature from Oakland County.

Declaring that it is necessary that immediate action be taken to save Michigan agriculture, the resolution sets forth that members of the club "will not, neighbor with change work loans, mortgages or other indebtedness, and owners of property acquired by foreclosure within the next two years."

"Further," the resolution says, "we will withdraw our patronage from any individual or company that assists in the growing, harvesting or marketing of any agricultural product or market produce on property so acquired."

The Oak Hill Farmers' Club, organized since 1922, is composed of about 75 members whose farms are in Brantford and Incon Townships. Members of the committee which framed the resolution include: Charles Beardslee, vice-president; Mrs. Beardslee, secretary; C. J. Hart, president; and W. B. Burritt, secretary.
