New Staff Chosen For Barnum Paper

At a meeting held last week, members of the Baldwin High School newspaper, elected new officers for the coming year.

The new staff consists of a ninth grade student who was chosen editor, succeeding Bette Paul, who will transfer to Bacon at the end of the winter semester.

Other new staff officers are Carol Giles, associate editor; Jack Reynolds, business manager; Robert Peewles, art editor; and Norma Schwilke, circulation manager.

Three baskets and two charity shots for a total of eight points, opened the scoring for the Maples by meeting a dog shot and a foul shot.

Shaw gave the Aces their first score by sinking two free throws.

Schwartz added another point for Baldwin by converting on a foul shot, followed by a break-through center, 100-foot-ounce play, which ended the game with a hurried short shot to give the Maples a total of six points.

Reported during the final week of Green Hoovers, the McDonald practice by the cast of the annual minstrel show to be presented by Baldwin High School Friday night in Baldwin High School Auditorium. The curtain will rise at 7 P. M. Proceeds of the show will be used to help the group members finance their trip to the national capital next spring.

An unusual amount of talent which needed little grooming has given the players an easy task in preparation, said William Tothacker, sponsor of the group, in commenting on the production.

"I believe the show should be the best of its kind ever given at Baldwin."

The complete cast will be headed by David Curry, interactor, and Tom Shoop, Bill Howling, John Peterson, and Richard Thompson, end men. A large mixed circle will supplement the lead.

MAROONS FACING 3 STIFF BATTLES

A program of intramural sports in Birmingham's three junior high schools got under way last Saturday morning when boys from all three schools assembled in their school gymnasiums to choose teams and play the first of a series of round-robin tournaments in basketball.

Coach Miles Robinson, who has charge of the activities at Baldwin Junior high, reported that enough boys came out Saturday to form five teams in both the heavy-weight and lightweight classes, although smaller numbers were reported for the first sessions at Barrington and Adams schools.

Each team in the two divisions will play a round-robin series with teams in their own school, and then will compete in a round-robin tournament with teams from other schools.

Ernest Engel has charge of the teams at Barrum, and Donald Joy of those at Adams.
