NEW USE URGED FOR MACHINERY

Economist, In Talk Here, Outlines Plan For Eliminating Costs Of Distribution

An entirely new line of machinery is the solution for present day troubles, as offered by Ralph Borsodi, author and economist, who delivered a free lecture on "The Consumer Market—How to Revive and Stabilize It," at the Community House last Thursday night.

"The chief thing which distinguishes this depression from previous depressions," Mr. Borsodi said, "is the fact that we no longer have a frontier where people can go to establish a new life and rehabilitate themselves. There is no place in industrial society today for the unemployed. I see no hope for millions of people.

"The relief measures we have taken thus far have been only temporary. We have been living on the hope that prosperity is just around the corner, but the time has come for us to stop fooling ourselves. Ours is not a problem that will vanish. Our salvation does not lie in the carrying out of the political methods which are being used in Washington to "prime the pump of prosperity," because those methods do not deal with the causes of unemployment."

Up to the present time, the speaker declared, machinery has been used exclusively in factories with the assumption that that was the only way in which it could be used. But all the savings of mass production tend to be lost in distribution, he said, and maintained that we can do things for ourselves less expensively because we have no distribution costs. Our only economic hope lies in the adoption of the producing-using plan as opposed to the earning-buying plan, he declared.

This plan, suggested by Mr. Borsodi in his various books dealing with economic theories, is being carried out at the present time in poverty-stricken sections of Dayton, O.

Chicago Fair Will See Milles Statue

Cranbrook Sculptor Models Figure For General Motors Building Entrance Salon

Among the wealth of art objects by American and foreign masters to be exhibited at the Century of Progress Exposition opening in Chicago on May 27 will be a statue modelled at the Cranbrook Academy of Art by Carl Milles, famous Swedish sculptor, who is ranked by many critics as the greatest exponent of modern sculpture.

The statue, which will be placed in the entrance salon of the General Motors Building at the Exposition, represents a skilled workman holding an automobile engine connecting rod aloft at an angle at which he can look through the bearing aperture toward the light.

The figure, which is symbolic of precision craftsmanship, is 16 feet high, and stands on a pedestal 9 feet high.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—

Mayor Donald D. James of Bloomfield Hills, member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors: "I am in favor of Oakland County owning and operating its own bank."

Venerable Resident Is Taken By Death

Advanced age was blamed for the death Tuesday morning of V. Nelson Denison at his home, 560 Pierce street.

Mr. Denison, who was 83 years old, arose as usual and ate breakfast, but was taken suddenly ill and died at 10:50 A. M. Services will be held at 2:30 P. M. today from the First Presbyterian Church, with burial in Greenwood Cemetery. Rev. W. Clarence Wright will officiate.

Mr. Denison was born in Royal Oak township, and had lived in this vicinity all his life. His wife, Sarah Erving Denison, preceded him in death last September. They had celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary on April 1, 1932.

Surviving are four sons, Ray L. and Roy H. of Birmingham, Seth of Detroit and Ross E. of Chicago; and four daughters, Mrs. Emery Hayes of Hartland, Mich., Mrs. Albert Sloo of Birmingham, Mrs. Arthur Boyes of Birmingham, and Miss Hazel Denison, at home. Twenty-eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren also survive.
