WE HEARD IT SAID BY—
 Joseph E. Stroop, local meat dealer: "Recently I visited Iowa, and was interested in the Hallow's plans created in Council Bluffs. Every store was trimmed in the spirit of the occasion, and the lamp-posts down-town were covered with high corn stalks. It was a great sight."

William Lloyd Kemp, Yarmouth road: "Nothing makes me so Socialistic as the contemplation of some of the activities of the big corporations."

The practice of swapping votes is not new, but it must be confessed that during the session (of the State Legislature) just closed, it reached heights heretofore unattained.

I think Attorney-General Patrick H. O'Brien has made a distinct job of his office in more ways than one.

'ROYAL SCOT' TO PASS THRU BIRMINGHAM

One of the most famous English trains in the world—the "Royal Scot," famous English train, at the World's Fair in Chicago, will pass through Birmingham on its way from Chicago to Detroit. This was assured yesterday by B. M. Hinton, local agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, who announced that the train is scheduled to pass through Birmingham at about 11:35 P. M. Saturday on its way from Chicago to Detroit.

The train will not stop here, but will travel through slowly on the center track to give everyone an opportunity to view it from the well-lighted passenger platforms at the station, Mr. Hinton said.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN DETROIT

As a child, Mrs. McClellan moved with her family to Detroit where she lived the remainder of her life. She was a charter member of the Memorial Presbyterian Church, founded there 53 years ago.

Mrs. McClellan was the mother of Mrs. Cree, and of Mrs. Arthur W. King and Donald J. McClellan, both of Detroit. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Persons who derive a particular esthetic pleasure from early American glassware will be interested in an exhibit of antiques to be held Nov. 11, 12 and 13 at Northwood Auditorium, Woodward and Twelve Mile road. A large collection of broken and pattern glass will be one of the chief features of the exhibit, which is being prepared by about 10 antique dealers of Detroit and vicinity.

Other exhibits will include prints, flasks, coverlets, quilts and dolls. Wilson Jones, of 720 Northwood ward avenue, Birmingham, will present a new era of social justice and economic security. When carried out literally, it will undoubtedly put a stop to ruinous competition, curtail business practices, and restore a true co-operative spirit to trade and industry which will be a boon to the poor as well as the rich, to the small as well as the large."

have on display a set of dolls in a miniature old English household, the set being about 40 years old.

An opportunity for Birmingham women—and men, too, for that matter—to learn infallible rules which will enable them to distinguish between genuine oriental rugs and clever imitations is to be offered in a class to be given weekly in the Community House, beginning next Thursday.

The class is to be taught by John Faily of Detroit, a 22-year-old native of Persia, who is devoting his study of the study of the history, customs and products of his native country. Coming to the United States at the age of 17, Faily spent two years at Ypsilanti State Normal College, and is planning to continue his education at the Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago. He returned to Persia in 1931 for a year of study and travel. Although the study of oriental rugs will be emphasized in the class here, it will also deal with subjects relating to oriental civilization, history, religion, literature and art, Faily said.

The first class next Thursday, which will begin at 10 A. M., will be in the form of a discussion which will be open to the public, with no admission charge. Those interested may enroll at that time in the course itself, which is scheduled to continue for 12 weeks, meeting every Thursday morning.

Further information regarding the class and its instructor may be obtained at the Artistic Market on South Woodward avenue.
